SLOW TREND TOWARD NEW NATIONAL ERA
Average American Is Convinced Readjustment to Take 3 to 5 Years
NO BIG CLIMAX SEEN
Little Support Extended to Proposals to Abandon Gold Standard

Washington—America is undergoing a social readjustment with changes as profound and fundamental as in any period in the history of the republic.
The average American waiting feverishly for a climax has just begun to realize that the process of change in the United States has been under way for some time and that American adaptation to change will be gradual rather than sudden.
Reflections such as these impressed themselves on this correspondent during a two weeks' journey through several states, visiting agricultural as well as industrial localities. Talks with business men, professional men, leaders of civic thought, industrial executives left these common denominators:
First, the theory that "prosperity" is "just around the corner" has been dissipated and there is a readiness to accept the readjustment as something likely to consume three to five years with the acute stages probably passing in 1932.
Second, a deep conviction that American common sense and versatility will prevent any catastrophic climax and will permit a mobilization of credits and resources to meet any emergency that may threaten.
Eggs Currency Safeguards
Third, there is little sympathy with currency tinkering or "gold standard abandonment," though everywhere thoughtful men congregated they look askance at the economic paradox presented by a huge class of debtors who cannot repay 1929 debts in 1932 dollars.
Fourth, whereas a few months ago everybody had his pet remedy to end the depression, the overwhelming nature of the upheaval has begun to sink in and while there is a tendency in some quarters to look for an early equilibrium between buyer and seller, the majority of business men who have cut overhead and other costs are merely marking time waiting for the basic industries to discover a solution and

Warners' Profits In Own Stocks Are Investigated In Senate's Market Quiz

G. O. P. Leaders to Stay at Capital if Session Is Not Concluded

Washington—(P)—Operations intended to show that the three Warner brothers profited $9,251,000 in 1929 by purchase and sale of Warner Brothers motion picture stock were traced today in the senate stock market investigation.
As Harry M. Warner took the stand, William A. Gray, counsel for the inquiry, said he would establish "that this man through undercover channels and by covering up his transactions sold his stock while certain journals were boosting the value before the public." He said the buying was when the newspapers began to depress the price.
The president of the picture production concern said his trades were for himself and his two brothers, Albert and J. L. Warner, jointly. The business was done through several different brokers and through accounts under the names of Moore, Rosenberg and Edward Charnes.
Warner called Samuel Schneider, his counsel, to sit by him as the examination progressed. The lawyer said the deals were under other names because it had been found that trading in the Warner name influenced others.
Before Warner was called, Senator Brookhart (R., Iowa), asked Gray to have Richard Whitney, president of the exchange, present to the committee a pool operation which he considered honest.
"I want to know whether there is anything honest in this institution," Brookhart said.
Gray replied that when Whitney was in the stand he professed ignorance of the existence of any pools on the exchange.
At Brookhart's request, the committee agreed to have Gray communicate with Whitney to ask him to name some syndicate whose operations he believes to be entirely honest.
Gray said he would then go into the activities of the syndicate or take whatever action the committee might desire.
The counsel remarked that he himself had data on "50 to 60 pools."
Warner Brothers was organized in 1925 with 550,000 shares of common stock.
When the Stanley company, a theater-owning corporation, was acquired about four years later, Warner stock was increased to 1,000,000 shares.
The Stanley company, he said, owned about 290 theaters in different parts of the country.
As Gray questioned Warner about the details of the organization, the witness called his counsel, Samuel Schneider, to his side at the committee table.
Warner estimated the common stock Warner brothers had out in January, 1930, at 2,500,000 shares, and placed his holdings then at 303,464. He subsequently said this represented the amount held by himself and his two brothers, Albert and J. L. Warner, jointly.
"When you bought and sold any of this stock you bought and sold it for all three," inquired Gray.
"Correct," said the witness.
"Does that 303,000 shares have relation to that 2,500,000?" asked Senator Couzens (R., Mich.).
"Yes."
"So that you controlled the enterprise with a little over 10 per cent of that stock?" Couzens asked.
Warner responded that "the board of directors" controlled the company.
The three brothers, he said, were among the 11 directors.
"There is no doubt is there?" asked Gray, "that you and your brothers controlled the operation of it?"
"We designated the operation of it," Warner said.
Couzens asserted "as a matter of fact every one of the directors was selected by Warner Brothers. The Warner Brothers and their friends were in control."

Name Not Made Public—Wanted for Questioning on His Information

Hopewell, N. J.—(P)—Dr. John F. Condon, the Jafie of the Lindbergh case, sped on a mysterious mission into New England today and state police announced that his examination of New Jersey rogues galleries had been postponed until next week.

Flemington—(P)—W. C. Pender, Norfolk attorney engaged by relatives and friends of John H. Condon, the Jafie of the Lindbergh case, spent two hours with the Virginia shipbuilder and "negotiator" in the county jail today.

Baltimore—(P)—A man long identified with New Jersey liquor running activities was disclosed today as the "mysterious gangster in Maryland" sought for questioning in the Lindbergh kidnapping case.

The man, who remained unnamed, informed Arthur Mills, identification expert at the Maryland House of Correction that the body of the kidnapped child would be found within five miles of the Lindbergh estate two days before it actually was discovered.

Mills, formerly a member of the Maryland state police, said the rum runner further informed him that the baby had been killed by blows on the head, and that the body had been hidden near the family home.
"I didn't pay any attention to it at the time," Mills said, "but later when I read that the body had been found, I communicated my information to Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf of the New Jersey police. Two officers came here yesterday to investigate it."

Mills said he had first known the man at Ocean City, Md., in December, 1929, when more than a score of men were arrested while attempting to land a cargo of liquor on the beach.
He said he saw the rum runner two days before the body of the Lindbergh baby was found, and he complained of the police activities which hampered his liquor activities.
"If somebody doesn't do something about the case soon, I will," Mills quoted the man as having said. He also told him he knew several people connected with the case.

Day's Air News

Culmore, Ireland—(P)—Amelia Earhart Putnam became first woman solo flier of the Atlantic when she brought her plane down here at 2:30 p. m. (CST) a. m., central standard time, after air trip of 15 hours and 39 minutes from Harbor Grace, N. F.

Wilmington, Del.—(P)—Captain J. Erroll Boyd, trans-Atlantic flier, announced he was planning a solo round-the-world flight in his airplane Columbia.

New York—(P)—It was the fifth anniversary of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's Lone Eagle flight from New York to Paris.

KREUGER DEBT 163 MILLION

"Match King" Died Almost Penniless—Most of Debts to Remain Unpaid

Stockholm—(P)—Ivar Kreuger, the world-famous "match king," who until he fired a bullet into his brain in Paris March 12, was considered the greatest financial genius of modern times, died practically penniless and owing $163,000,000, it was revealed today.

The announcement was made by the Swedish investigating committee which has been probing Kreuger's affairs since his suicide.

The $163,000,000 is in personal debts, the committee said, and there will be little, if anything, left for distribution to unsecured creditors.

The committee found that fictitious assets were set up on the Kreuger and Toll books since 1924 and that the state of the books was such that it was extremely difficult to produce a definite balance sheet for the company.

"This being the case, the committee considers there is no longer any need for maintaining the existing moratorium, and it is therefore recommending to the board that it request the Swedish government to take the necessary steps to have the company declared bankrupt."

"In this connection the committee would point out that special bankruptcy legislation is in preparation intended to safeguard the interests of the entire body of creditors."

Kreuger's personal debts were about $53,500,000, the committee found, and there were indirect liabilities of about 274,500,000. The assets, apart from certain personal property, consisted of various concerns, some of these valuable and unaffected by Kreuger and Toll, the report said, but their total value would amount to only a comparatively small percentage of Kreuger's personal liabilities. Besides, most of their securities are pledged.

BINGHAM AMENDS HIS LEGALIZED BEER PLEA

Washington—(P)—In the belief that five votes will be gained by the change, Senator Bingham (R., Conn.) today amended his proposals for legislation to call for a source of taxation to call for a source of 25 per cent by weight rather than per cent by volume. The Connecticut senate said he hoped to get 29 votes for his plan.

In the first senate vote on beer earlier this week, a proposal by Senator Tydings (D., Md.) for brew of 25 per cent by volume to finance a $15,000,000 program of public works was defeated 91 to 24.

KILLS FAMILY OF THREE, THEN SLAYS HIMSELF

Injuries Suffered During War Blamed for Triple Murder and Suicide

Phillips, Wis.—(P)—Delafosse induced by injuries suffered in the World war and unemployment were blamed by Priceco authorities today for a triple murder and suicide which took the lives of an immigrant farmer and his family on a farm 11 miles northwest of here.

Leaving a note in which he stated the act was premeditated, Martin Karas, 31, shot and killed his wife, Julia, 28, and their two children, Rose, 4, and John, 2, and then fatally shot himself. A neighbor accidentally found the bodies late yesterday, shortly after the shooting.

Karas, authorities learned, came to this country from Czechoslovakia in 1920. He lived in Chicago for a time, but last February came to live on the farm near here which is owned by his brother-in-law, John Grip. Relatives said he served with the Austrian army in the World war and suffered from shell shock.

Neighbors told Sheriff Nick Bey they heard four shots about 3 p. m. yesterday but suspected nothing unusual since gunfire is frequently heard in this region. About two weeks later a woman, crossing the fields to her home, found the bodies scattered over the yard.

The bodies of Karas and the daughter lay about 150 feet from the house and the boy's body was found in the kitchen doorway. While searching the premises, officers stumbled on the body of Mrs. Karas, 30, lying in a clump of bushes about 500 yards from the house. A deer rifle lay beside Karas' body.

The note, written in Slovakian, weighed down with a box of rifle cartridges. It directed authorities to dig under a sawkerat barrel in the basement for a tin box containing $540. The money was found in the spot designated. Karas requested the money be used for burying "all in one grave."

In the absence of Coroner Walter Blume, the sheriff and District Attorney Louis Koeng took charge of the bodies and brought them to a funeral home here. The prosecutor said it was clearly a case of murder and suicide and there would probably be no inquest.

COALITION CABINET NAMED FOR AUSTRIA

Engelbert Dollfus Heads Group After 14 Days of Negotiations

Vienna—(P)—Austria had a new cabinet today, after 14 days of negotiations following the resignation of the government of Chancellor Karl Buresch.

Engelbert Dollfus, Christian Socialist (Catholic) minister of agriculture in the Buresch government, finally succeeded in forming a coalition cabinet last night. Dollfus himself will take over the agriculture and foreign affairs portfolios as well as the chancellorship. Dollfus is 50 years old.

The new government is a coalition of the Christian Socialists, the Heimatschutz (National Socialists or Fascists) and the Agrarians. The Heimatschutz has a one-vote majority in parliament.

The cabinet: Franz Winkler, vice-chancellor; Franz Bacherger, interior; Emanuel Weidenhoffen, finance; Kurt Schuschnigg, justice; Guido Jankovic, trade; Herman Aeh, public security; Karl Vauguin, army; Anton Rindisch, education; and Joseph Reich, social welfare.

The immediate task facing the new government is action on a proposed transfer moratorium, which is generally regarded as inevitable unless the league of nations provides a loan. A deficit of $10,000,000 in the national budget is also a pressing problem.

AWAIT FURTHER ACTION IN OKLAHOMA OIL CASE

Oklaoma City—(P)—There was doubt today what development—if any—would follow the fixing of military law in Oklahoma, proposed by Robert Burns, acting governor.

Burns, who differs frequently with Gov. William H. (Alfalfa Bill) Murray, resembled the order late yesterday while the governor was on a speaking trip in Hudson, N. Y., in furtherance of his campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Governor Murray indicated he would clamp the military law back on when he returns. Burns had declared the order illegal and unwarranted.

When the supreme court this week upheld the Oklahoma oil conservation laws, under which production is administered by the corporation commission, Murray said he would continue martial rule for fear "inferior federal courts might grant injunctions enjoining the commission."

Amendment to Eliminate Postal Official's Salary Offered by Utahan

Washington—(P)—An amendment to the treasury-postoffice appropriation bill, eliminating the salary of W. Irving Glover, second assistant postmaster general, was introduced in the senate today by Senator King (D., Utah).

In a brief statement, King referred to remarks attributed to Glover at a recent convention of Missouri postmasters at St. Louis, which were assailed recently on the floor of the house and senate.

Glover, whom King did not name, referring to him only as "the second assistant postmaster general," told the Missouri postmasters in substance, King said, "to actively engage in supporting President Hoover."

In effect, King continued, "he advised them if they did not do so, he would be in Washington in a few days and would be glad to receive their resignation."

Glover had denied he told the postmasters to work for reelection of President Hoover, saying he meant his speech as one for support of the president in his reconstruction program.

Another amendment was submitted by the Utahns to provide no part of the appropriation should be used to pay a postmaster's salary unless he stated under oath he had not been engaged in political campaign and had not used or permitted the use of any part of the postoffice building for political meetings.

ARSON UNCOVERED IN WAREHOUSE BURNING

Milwaukee—(P)—William Greenwald, deputy state fire marshal, today said a blaze that did about $25,000 damage to the warehouse and office of the North Shore Construction and Lumber Co. was one of the most flagrant cases of arson he had ever encountered.

"Remnants of cloth streamers, strung from one room to another, were found," he said. "They had been soaked with kerosene and ignited. Six cans, each with a hole punched in the bottom, were found. I discovered evidence that the fire had been set in at least 15 places." The fire was discovered late Thursday.

Aviatrix Lands Just Five Years After Lindbergh's Flight to Paris

New York—(P)—The Radio Marine Corp. announced the receipt at 9:50 a. m., eastern standard time today, of this message from the German airliner DO-X:

"Position 11:00 Greenwich mean time (9 a. m. eastern standard time) 14.00 north, 41.15 west. Winds west-southwest. Speed 99 knots. All clear."

Culmore, Ulster, Ireland—(P)—Amelia Earhart Putnam brought down her red and gold monoplane in a field on the Donegal side of Lough Foyle this afternoon and thereby became the first woman ever to fly the Atlantic alone.

She landed on this side of the ocean five years to the day after Col. Charles A. Lindbergh arrived at Le Bourget, France.

"I've done it," Mrs. Putnam exclaimed when she got out of her ship. She had intended to go to Paris, but it was necessary to cut the flight short because her exhaust manifold had burned out and the gasoline gauge was broken, causing a little leakage.

The little, blond flier, who took off from Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, at 4:51 p. m. eastern standard time yesterday, got a lift by motor to Londonderry, five miles away, where

FLIGHT IN FIGURES (By the Associated Press)

Distance—2,926.5 miles.
Time—15 hours, 39 minutes.
Average speed—129.5 miles per hour.

Left Harbor Grace, Newfoundland—5:01 p. m., Appleton time, Friday.
Arrived Culmore, northern Ireland—7:09 a. m., Appleton time, Saturday.

The first thing she did was to get out the telephone to report her success to London in order that her husband, George Palmer Putnam, New York publisher, and her friends back home might know that she was safe.

It was 2:59 p. m. (7:59 a. m., Appleton time) when Mrs. Putnam landed here. She had made the trip of 2,925 miles in 15 hours and 39 minutes.

All Britain and France had been waiting eagerly for news of her, special interest centering on the fact that today was the fifth anniversary of the flight of Colonel Lindbergh, to whom attention had been directed again by the tragic death of his child.

When Mrs. Putnam had reported that she was safe, she got into an automobile and left Londonderry for an unannounced destination.

Her plane was not damaged in the landing and she was wholly unharmed.

Flow Through Storms
"For a lot of the way," Mrs. Putnam said, "I was flying through storms—mist, rain and a little fog. To my friends in New York I want to send this message: I am very glad to have come across successfully, but I am sorry indeed I did not make France."

"I am going to speak to my husband as soon as I can by the Atlantic phone."

Prisoner at Elkhorn Admits He Was in Gas Station Evening of Murder

Elkhorn, Wis.—(P)—LaCrosse authorities were expected here today to take charge of a man authorities said admitted being in the gasoline filling station on the night of April 13 when James W. Saliz, attendant, was slain at LaCrosse.

District Attorney W. L. Seymour and Deputy Sheriff Joseph Dorr said the man did not confess shooting Saliz but admitted he was wearing clothing that tallied in description with those worn by the supposed slayer.

The man said after he left LaCrosse, he begged a coat left at Ripon and discarded his other coat and obtained different trousers at another place.

The man was first questioned when he came to the county jail to a night's lodging. He admitted having served a year's sentence in prison.

Michigan authorities said they were told that Stevens' wives included Bianche Burch of Athens, Mrs. Lulu E. Burke of Plainfield, Mich., Mrs. Cora Hamilton of Union City, Mich., Mrs. Ethel Liggert of Magnetic Springs, Ohio, and an unidentified woman in Oberlin, Ohio.

Washington—(P)—One hundred members of congress, at the very least, carry relatives on the government payroll.

Under the critical looking of those who lately have accused congress of extravagance and a lot of other things, the house finally yesterday made public its disburser records, which have been secret even to the members themselves for the past 100 years.

An immediate check on the latest payroll in the office of South Trimble, clerk of the house, showed that one hundred members carried one or more persons of the same surname on their payrolls. Today's names most of them wives, daughters, nieces, with a number of sons scattered through the list. However, active workers.

Capitalism Assailed As Socialist Party Opens Convention

KEYNOTER HITS MAJOR PARTIES IN HIS SPEECH

Attacks "Iniquitous and Insane Economic Order" They Represent

Milwaukee — (P) — An economic system that works "through alternate streaks of fever and paralysis," a system in which too much wealth causes poverty, cannot endure much longer, Morris Hillquit of New York, said in the keynote address with which he opened the national convention of the Socialist party here today.

The industrial crisis has been a crucial test for both Republican and Democratic parties and both have failed lamentably, said the party's executive committee chairman. The Socialist party, about to nominate its candidate for president and to promulgate its platform, makes a flat declaration of war against both old parties, "and the whole iniquitous and insane economic order for which they stand," he added.

The administration of President Hoover was termed a "pitiable fiasco."

"Confronted with the sudden breakdown of the economic life of the country, the great 'engineer' in the presidential chair proved ludicrously incompetent to cope with it," Hillquit observed. "His naive admonitions, psychologic incantations and financial stunts succeeded in creating a few abortive spurts in the stock market, but did not provide jobs for the unemployed."

Whereas performances of the Republican administration have been ineffective, it is safe to assert that no Democratic administration would be more successful, Hillquit continued.

"Failure of System"

"The failure of the Hoover administration is not the failure of a person, but of a system. What we are witnessing today is nothing less than the complete bankruptcy of capitalism."

Economic stagnation, in a nation so rich in resources, is wholly unnecessary, the keynoter said. The "much vaunted captains of industry," having proved themselves "as incompetent as they are unscrupulous," the Socialist party demands "that they surrender the country to the people."

Continuing his arraignment of the administration, Hillquit charged that while a lavish life has been led by the few, the masses have been reduced to poverty. He has refused to grant to the poor even a minimum of protection in the form of unemployment insurance.

Taking advantage of such an attitude on the part of the government, the ruling class has persecuted workers relentlessly, he asserted. In no other country, he said, do capitalists dare to resort to such "savagery" as were exemplified by the judicial class murder of Sacco and Vanzetti in Massachusetts, or the perfidious frame-up of Mooney and Billings in California. "It is an ugly class struggle which, by intensifying confusion, threatens the peace of the world, he said.

Assails Tariff Wall

In bringing about this condition the old political parties must assume responsibility, he continued. He ridiculed "the insane and ruinous tariff wall" which hems in the United States at a time when stimulation of foreign trade is imperative. Such a policy impoverishes Europe, "is to a large extent responsible for Adolf Hitler and the threat of Fascism," and precludes all hope that America will ever collect "the fantastic debts created by our endless participation in the ghastly World war," he said.

The Socialist party, Hillquit said, will demand repeal of high tariffs, complete cancellation of war debts, withdrawal of all American troops on foreign soil, disarmament by international understanding "and by our own example," and recognition of Soviet Russia.

Middle class liberalism and Communism do not supply a remedy for present ills, he concluded. Only Socialism, he said, offers an effective way out for the American people.

Elks Official Good-Will Car Stops Here

WILLIAM CUNNINGHAM, Pilot of the Transcontinental Good Will Car.

William Cunningham, driving the Elks Official Good-Will car on the fourth annual tour of the country, stopped here for about a half hour this morning on his way to the northern part of the state. A reception committee consisting of officers of Appleton lodge welcomed him at the club house.

Driving a new President Eight Studebaker, painted with the official purple and white of the Order of Elks, Mr. Cunningham arrived here about 10 o'clock. He left here a half hour later for Green Bay.

This car is one of a fleet of three which are scheduled to visit more than 250 cities where there are Elks clubs throughout the United States.

one car proceeding from Boston, another from Chicago and another from Seattle, all three being scheduled to arrive at Birmingham, Alabama, scene of the forthcoming Elks national convention July 11.

In the course of their journey, the cars of this fleet will have been traveling 37 days and will have contacted more than 250,000 of the 750,000 members of the Order of Elks and will have compiled a total mileage well over 21,000.

The driver of each car carries with him a personal invitation to Elks and others of Appleton extended by Rufus Davies, eminent brother of former Ambassador Davies, to attend the 1932 World's Fair at Chicago.

As indicated by the name, the purpose of the tour is good-will and represents an annual event sponsored by the Elks to cement friendly relations between various lodges of the order. Everywhere these cars visit they are enthusiastically received, not alone by Elks, but by a majority of the people of the cities visited.

Extreme Activity Marks Career Of First Woman To Fly Across Atlantic

New York — (P) — Amelia Earhart, Putnam, trans-Atlantic flier, has crowded enough activity into her 34 years to make careers for several women, or men, for that matter.

War nurse, commercial photographer, social worker, aviation company executive, magazine editor, teacher, member of numerous aviation organizations, all part of her experience, as well as her mastery of the art of flying.

She was the first American woman to be granted a license by the Federation Aeronautique Internationale, an honor which she gained June 15, 1925, when she crossed from Trepassey, N. F., to Europe, Wales in the trimotor monoplane, "Friendship" with Wilmer Stultz.

"POOR" MOTORISTS BEG GASOLINE FROM CITY OF GREEN BAY

Green Bay — (P) — Mayor John V. Diener believes he has detected in society a class of humans one step above the hitch hiker. Its members are automobile vagabonds who have a gasoline tank but practically nothing to put into it.

Half a dozen times road-stained motorists have visited the Mayor and asked the city to give them enough gasoline to "get out of town." The inference is that if the gasoline is not forthcoming the tourists will beg down on the spot and become public charges.

Once or twice the mayor provided the fuel. But when a procession of motorists came to him with the same request, he suspected that he was being made the victim of a penny-ante racket. So now when he is asked for gasoline, he suggests that the motorist accept a short sentence for vagrancy. To date no one has accepted the offer.

"There is no question that groups of vagabond motorists are wandering from city to city, begging gasoline and seeing the country at no cost to themselves," the mayor said. "Such visitors bring no value to a community and there may be some of criminal disposition among them."

SPORTSMEN TO PLACE 2,000 PHEASANT EGGS

Fish and Game Association Cooperates With Walton League Members

The most comprehensive campaign for stocking the covers of our county with pheasants ever undertaken in this part of the state, is at present being carried out by members of the Outagamie Fish and Game Protective association, cooperating with the local chapter of the Izak Walton league several hundred eggs have been purchased, more have been shot in the county by the state conservation commission and some will be obtained from birds which have been kept in captivity for that purpose.

As a result, almost 2,000 pheasant eggs will be placed with cooperators who will hatch out the eggs and care for the tiny chicks until they have reached an age of several weeks, after which they can take care of themselves. However, in the country districts, the birds usually hang around the farmhouse where they were raised for some months after being released, to the great pleasure of the persons favored by their presence.

About 450 of these eggs have already been placed with rural cooperators and applications for as many more are on file with the officers of the association. About one thousand eggs are expected within the next few days and more cooperators are needed. Persons living in the villages and rural districts, who would like to hatch out one or more settings of these beautiful birds, are requested to get in touch with any of the following men for further information:

Steve Ott, Hortonville; H. G. Price, Dale; Chas. J. Steidl, Stephentown; Harvey Romberg, Greenville; Hal VanStraten, Shiocton; Henry Brandt, Black Creek; J. J. Jansen, Kaukauna; Gus A. Sell or Alfred S. Bradford, Appleton.

The interest shown in this project has been very gratifying to officers of the association, especially the eagerness of the younger generation of sportsmen, the students at the junior high schools, to learn more about practical conservation.

This clinic is the first of its kind to be held in Appleton, for the purpose of improving and furthering school music in the state.

Today and Tomorrow

Mr. Lippmann, formerly editor of the New York World, is one of the foremost liberal thinkers in the country. He has complete freedom of expression in the articles appearing under his signature.

BY WALTER LIPPMANN

POVERTY AND PLENTY

Following is text of an address delivered by Walter Lippmann before the National Conference of Social Work yesterday at Philadelphia.

I have not come here to exhort or to advise you. You do not need to be exhorted to keep up your courage and to continue. In the last two and a half years you have proved your mettle. Among all who have had to deal with this great crisis, among statesmen and business men, among reformers and economists, your record is the clearest. You have the least to regret. You have had to administer relief on a scale which was utterly unforeseen. You have been provided with resources that were rarely adequate. The patience and the courage, the resourcefulness and the single-mindedness with which you have carried out the heavy burden of this time when the history of the times comes to be written it will be said of the social workers of America that they did their duty without flinching and that they deserved well of their country.

You know better than any assembly that could be gathered together what are the real and final consequences of this great disorder in human affairs. You have seen what lies behind the statistics of unemployment and of destitution. You have seen what lies behind the obvious symptoms of want. You have penetrated the surface and you know the anxieties, the paralyzing fears, the broken bodies and the broken spirits which the world-wide mismanagement and confusion entail. I shall not tell of these things of which you are the daily witnesses.

I shall speak rather of the paradox at the heart of all this suffering, the paradox of want in the midst of abundance, of poverty in the midst of plenty. I should like to call your attention to the outer to the fact that this is the first great economic depression in which every thinking person has been conscious of this paradox.

It is often said that this depression is not unlike the great depression after 1873 and 1878. There are indeed many common elements, and if our knowledge of these other crises were more reliable than it is, we should probably have more practical wisdom at hand for meeting our problem. But in the mentality of the people there is a profound difference between this crisis and all its predecessors. This is the first time when it is altogether evident that man's power to produce wealth has reached a point when it is clearly unnecessary that millions in a country like the United States should be in want. In all previous times there was some doubt as to whether the wealth of the nation was sufficient. That doubt no longer exists.

Man has invented and organized the power to produce wealth on a scale which allows us to say that the most ancient of human problems — the problem of scarcity — has been solved. It has not been solved in all parts of the globe. It has not been solved in China or in India and not yet, I think, in Russia. There men are still under the dominion of scarcity; the wealth, no matter how fairly it may be distributed, does not exist to liberate the people from the menace of want. There the problem is still the ancient problem — the problem of scarcity, of famine due to shortage of food and other goods.

But in our western world, and above all in the United States, this problem is solved. Not only do we know how to produce all the wealth needed for a decent standard of life for everybody, we actually do produce it in great abundance.

It has taken about 300 years to arrive at the point where we can definitely say that the problem of scarcity is solved. It has required the development of modern science, the overthrow of feudalism, the liberation of personal energies through the democratic destruction of caste, and the widespread popularization of knowledge to accomplish the result. But it has been done. It is in any large perspective a great achievement.

We who stand at the culmination of this epoch can see today that in order to reap the results of this achievement, in order to translate the power we possess into a secure and ordered civilization, we have to do something which is extremely difficult. We have to tamper with the motives which made the achievement possible. For if we are realistic we must acknowledge that the moving force behind the stupendous material work of the Nineteenth Century was the acquisitive instinct, stimulated to tremendous energy by the prospect of enormous personal profits and personal power. The supreme social problem of the Twentieth Century and perhaps for a longer time than that, is to find energies as powerful and as persistent as the acquisitive and the competitive which are disinterested and cooperative in their effect.

If I read correctly the recent experience of Russia it is being demonstrated there how difficult it is to solve that problem. For the Russian system starts with the promise that the acquisitive motive shall be outlawed. But the Russian experience seems to show, not only that the acquisitive motive is difficult to suppress, but that without it the energies of men to produce wealth are at present insufficient. That is why the Russians, when they find the output of wealth insufficient are compelled temporarily at least to mitigate their pure doctrine and make concessions to private acquisitiveness.

I mention this not by way of criticism, but because it seems to me to show the essential difficulty, met by men who are making the most radical experiment with a problem which confronts all mankind. Their experiment shows, thus, it seems to me, that a technology for the production of wealth brought into being under the stimulus of strong acquisitiveness will not easily be maintained and mastered by disinterested and cooperative motives alone.

It seems probable, therefore, indeed I think we may say it is certain that as it took several centuries to solve the problem of scarcity, so it will take long generations to solve what we may call the problem of the management of plenty. The solution of that problem depends upon changes in human motives as great as those which distinguish a feudal peasant from a modern business man. I do not say this in the spirit of those who tell us that nothing is possible because human nature is unchangeable. Human nature is changeable in the sense that the informed idealist has in mind. The change that has come over human nature in the west since the fifteenth century has made possible the capitalist system. The modern business man is the descendant of peasants, and if his human nature is changed from that of his ancestors, the motives which actuated him and the energies which he shows are at least a radical re-arrangement and displacement of the ancient pattern. If the descendants of the modern business man are to operate a social order in which personal initiative is to be combined with public responsibility, his motives will have to change as radically in the next century as they have in the past.

We are not, however, able to wait until human motives have been transformed. The pressure of events compels us to make experiments in the management of human affairs for which in fact we lack adequate human material. We do not have the wisdom and disinterestedness to manage with an assurance the volume of credit which determines the rhythm of economic enterprise. We do not have the wisdom and disinterestedness to make the world secure against war. We do not have the wisdom and disinterestedness to plan and arrange the growth of our cities or the future of agriculture or the balance between agriculture and industry. Nevertheless we have to attempt all these things, and many more besides, for which we are unprepared and inadequate. For the world in which we live, the world which our achievement in production has created, is a world which is so complicated, so dependent upon agreements and upon foresight that a policy of laissez-faire has become utterly impossible. We have to attempt the management of it though we know so little how to manage it. We have to learn by trial and error since the whole truth is not revealed to us and we cannot spin it a priori out of our minds.

Therefore, the Ages of Discovery are not over. We are entering a new one in which the problems are as fascinating and the issues as momentous as any with which man has dealt. The voyage of Columbus opened up a new world to the European

WALKER ASKED TO TELL ABOUT FUNDS

Investigators Want Details of Mayor's Expenses on Journeys

New York — (P) — Mayor James J. Walker's travels abroad in 1927 and to California in Tom Mooney's interest last year, the one allegedly on a $10,000 credit letter bought by a bus corporation agent, and the other not paid as yet, brought a demand from the city investigation committee today that the mayor explain them in detail next Wednesday.

Samuel Seabury, counsel for the Hofstadter legislative body, presented the credit letter in evidence and with it another document tending to show that the debonair official, finding Paris and the Lido expensive playgrounds, had overdrawn his credit $3,000 during the 10-day sojourn.

Seabury named J. Allan Smith, then New York sales agent for Fagel Motors company, a mid-west concern, as the original purchaser of the letter of credit.

Richard A. Hunter, former vice president of the Equitable Trust company, testified Smith had the $10,000 credit delivered to the mayor at city hall in the presence of State Senator John A. Hastings, political contact man for the Fagel concern. Previously Senator Hastings had said under severe questioning that a $2,000 bill for a private car to carry the mayor to California in the Mooney case remained unpaid. The Pullman company, it was brought out, had made repeated demands for the money.

EMPLOY 2,320 MEN IN CONSERVATION WORK

Madison — (P) — During the first ten weeks of its unemployment relief program, the conservation department today announced it had employed 2,320 men for an average of nine days each. The average pay check was $18.95.

Of the $500,000 allotted the commission for unemployment relief by the special session of the legislature, $176,820.48 had been allocated by May 14 for 252 projects. The commission said it had disbursed $45,043.42 of this sum.

Practically the entire allotment will be spent for labor and hand tools for the construction of fire lanes, fire roads and the erection of lookout towers, the commission said.

spirit, and within these widened horizons men accomplished miracles of invention and human organization. The solution of the problem of scarcity is a discovery like that of Columbus. It has opened a new world in which the human spirit can, and will expand with hopes and energies and invincible ambitions for a better order of life than men have ever known before.

Students Report Varied Experiences In Canvass

Slam!
The third door banged in the face of Eugene Eklid, Appleton high school senior, working with his classmates in Werner Wirt's sociology class on a city-wide check-up of all possible high school graduates. While Eugene was having housewives slam doors in his face, another chap in the class was being fed doughnuts on a kitchen table, while a motherly soul lectured him on the morals of youth.

Every student in the class had some humorous incident to relate after his first day of trailing from house to house in an assigned section of the city, to inquire whether or not high school graduates had ever lived there. Women pushed some of the youthful questioners away from the door, asked them if they enjoyed ringing doorbells of busy people, and many were taken for peddlers. Last week several persons called the high school to find out if the student calls were authorized.

The purpose of the check up is to find as many records as possible of high school graduates, especially before 1904, since previous records were destroyed when Ryan high school burned. With this information as a permanent record the high school will be able to have a complete list as possible of all former students.

Among the interesting people who have been found to have graduated from the high school include Harvey Conrad, chauffeur of Madame Schumann-Heine during the World War, who was personally decorated for bravery by King Victor Emmanuel of Italy. He was a graduate of the high school in 1908.

William Thomas, in charge of a photography division of Warner Bros., motion picture company, graduated from Appleton in 1913. Among the noted musicians who graduated from this school are Pearl Felton, famous singing teacher, Helen Ornstein, a recent newcomer in the operating field and a Mr. Scherke, music critic for a Paris newspaper.

The record of Miss Eva Brewster, who graduated in 1884, is among the oldest records obtained by the students. Others range from 1885 up to the present day. Each student covers a certain territory in the city and obtains all the information possible about any high school graduate in any of the families. These will be tabulated by the class and placed on file in the high school records.

Three Boys Arrested In Burglary Of Gasoline Filling Station

OWNER SHOTS AT YOUTHS AS THEY DRIVE OFF

Loot Consists of Cigarettes, Gum, Revolver and Small Change

After burglarizing the Ebert and Clark gasoline filling station at the intersection of Badger-ave and W. Wisconsin-ave about 2 o'clock this morning, three youths sped away in their touring car through a spray of gun shot fired at them by one of the station owners from a nearby house. Two boys, arrested later this morning, were arraigned in municipal court before Judge Theodore Berg charged with the burglary. They were Fred Johnson, 14 Greenwald-ave, Neenah, and George Prosser, 214 Kaukauna-st, Menasha. Both are 16 years old. Judge Berg set their preliminary hearing for Monday morning, and the boys were lodged in the county jail until then.

The third boy, Willard Krause, 105 E. Gunn-st, Appleton, 21 years old, gave himself up at police headquarters before noon today. He was placed in a cell until Monday morning, when he will be arraigned in municipal court. Young Krause was shot in the forehead and hand.

Fires at Car
Carl Ebert, one of the proprietors who lives about 150 feet from the station, was awakened by breaking glass. He grabbed a shot gun, turned on the lights at the station, and saw a touring car starting away. He commanded the driver to halt, but when the car continued to gain speed he fired four times, breaking the wind shield in front of the driver, a head light and parking light on the left side of the car, puncturing a left front tire and the radiator.

Two of the youths jumped from the car, one into a ditch and the other behind a telephone post. The third, the driver, kept on with the car. The youths who fled from the car then got away.

The case was reported to police, who a few hours later found the car abandoned in front of 802 E. Pacific-st, where the driver had awakened Mrs. Sude Collins and asked for water for his radiator. The man abandoned the car when he failed in his attempt to fill the leaking radiator.

License Under Seat
There were no license plates on the car but Officers Thomas and Adams Goebel found a plate issued to a Kaukauna man under one of the seats. Kaukauna police, who were called, informed the Appleton department that Chief C. H. Watts, of Neenah recently had inquired about the same car.

When Chief Watts was informed of the facts, he said he recently had questioned young Johnson about the car. Johnson was found at home in bed by Chief George T. Brim of Appleton. Chief Watts of Neenah and Officer Lester Van Roy, Johnson implicated Prosser and the Appleton officers and the Menasha desk sergeant picked up Prosser.

When brought to Appleton the boys admitted the burglary, according to police. Johnson had a wound on one ankle where a lead pellet had struck him. He said another pellet had just missed his lip. They said the burglary had been planned while returning from an Apple Creek dance.

A check up at the filling station revealed that several cartons of cigarettes, about $1 in change, 24 packages of gum, and a revolver were missing.

CHAPPLE IS GUARDED BY POLICE AT RACINE

Ashland Editor Gives Two-hour Address Despite Frequent Heckling

Racine — (P) — After parrying the thrusts of hecklers throughout a two-hour address, John B. Chapple, Ashland editor and candidate for United States senator, was escorted from Eagle hall here last night under police protection.

Chapple delivered the same address he read before audiences this week in Milwaukee and Madison. He again charged that immorality, atheism and Communism are sanctioned and taught by certain members of the University of Wisconsin faculty.

Although Chapple had announced a meeting for parents, the majority of his listeners, and the particularly unruly ones, were young men and women. Small groups of Communists were scattered through the hall.

The Rev. T. Parry Jones, a senior at the university, and pastor of a church at Oregon, Wis., jumped upon the platform when Chapple had finished reading and challenged the editor to debate the charges he had made. Chapple ignored the challenge, slipped through a side door, and was whisked away by police.

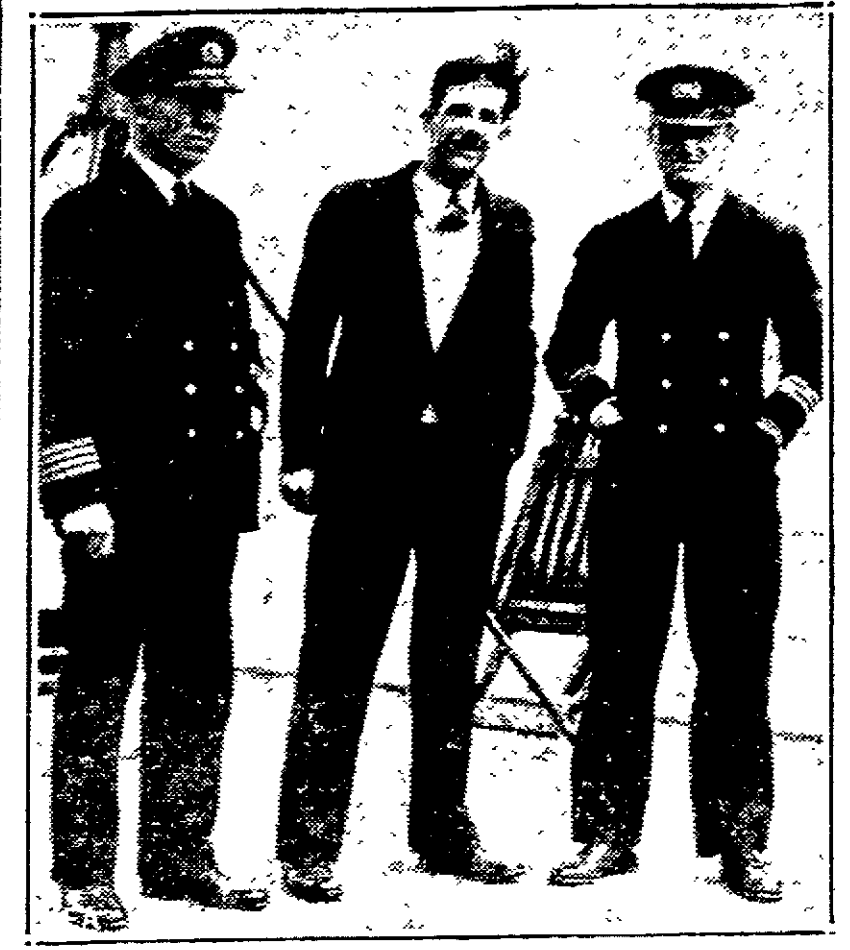

AUSTRIA IS PROMISED AID BY THREE NATIONS

Geneva — (P) — Financial assistance was promised to Austria by representatives of Great Britain, France and Italy today speaking before the council of the league of nations.

Captain R. A. Eden, British delegate, said his government was ready to join an international loan to Austria and to do what it could to permit the Vienna government to repay to the Bank of England its credit of 100,000,000 schillings (currently about $14,000,000).

British participation, Captain Eden explained, depended on Austria's continuing to meet payments on foreign obligations.

Clafin Gives "Low Down" On Best Trout Territory

BY BERT CLAFIN
So many are writing me asking that I direct them to some waters that are not overrun and "fished out," that I am offering this article. It must be understood, however, that the army of anglers has grown to one of great numbers, as compared with the rosters of a few years ago. While not every locality is "fished out," I hardly know of a region that is not visited by some anglers.

Up in Forest-co is the only real large virgin forest left to Wisconsin. And in this region are some of the finest lakes and streams for game fish of various kinds that we have. The only kind lacking is the musky. It is seldom, if ever, that these fish are found in any waters save those that drain into the Mississippi River.

There are twenty four lakes and fifteen trout streams within a radius of ten miles of Laona. From this place the fisherman can within a few minutes get to any of the following lakes: Birch, Riley, Waubikon, Silver, Stone and Trump. In them are found walleyes, black and Oswego bass, lake trout and northern pike.

If the fisherman is willing to camp out he can fish the famous Peshtigo, the Pine, Popple, the Rat and the Indian Creek. Just for the reason that there are no resorts on these streams the fishing is yet good. It requires roughing it to get the trout, but that is my idea of real sport.

Good quarters I will qualify that last statement by saying that there is one cabin in the heart of the dense forest on the Peshtigo River twelve miles from Laona, where fishermen can find quarters. And there is also one on Riley Lake, in the virgin timber. From which Riley and Waubikon Lakes can be fished, as well as the noted Indian Creek.

The later fishing is done from canoes which can be obtained at a canoe house I have mentioned above. Aside from the immediate neighborhood of these two places the country is wild and by no means overrun. As an indication of that let me say that the cabin on the Peshtigo River can be reached only by horseback over trails through the dense woods. Were there an automobile road in to this place I should be inclined to look a bit askance at it, for then it would be reasonable to assume that plenty of fishermen would be there at all times.

The trout fishing on the Indian Creek when conditions are right is worth a visit from any lover of fly casting, which is the method of taking the big speckled beauties.

No Wisconsin's waters are not all "fished out" if you know where to go. There are thousands of waters that are very seldom visited because of the difficulty of getting to them. But they are the ones that still have plenty of fish.

then pass on to the processors and distributors the business that is expected to flow from the slightest revival. Fifth, discussions of the five day week, fewer hours of labor and production problems generally are accepted as largely academic at present when in so many factories they haven't enough work even for a three-day week. Sixth, an underlying antagonism develops here and there against the bankers for enforced liquidation and a slowly crystallizing demand is coming for an intermediate credit system for business and industry, but particularly the small business, somewhat analogous to the intermediate credit system for agriculture.

Finance Questions
This is based upon the belief that the bond market — the long term money bank — will not be functioning normally for some time and that intermediate credit — three to five year capital — would enable business to readjust gradually and find a way to open up markets now abandoned because of shortage of working capital. Many businesses that have balanced their budgets and are making a profit are finding it difficult to refinance the overhanging debts of the last two years which arose either out of depleted reserves or inability to forecast the depth of depression deficits before reorganization on a profitable basis could be effected.

Seventh, a deep-seated resentment against officialdom which covers both the president and congress, though lately the former has been gaining some strength because of his disposition to speak out and assert leadership. Yet the people in all walks are far from satisfied. They believe congress is adding. They believe politicians interested in their own reelection are too abundant for the public good, and they have become convinced that government has developed a wastefulness and inefficiency which could be eliminated if bureaucracy could ever see the light.

Factors of Deficit
There is no general understanding of the break-down of the revenue-producing side and the inequitable tax system in federal and state and city governments which has contributed so largely to the deficits. In fact so much attention is being given to isolated items of government expense that the absence of any equitable system of taxation might have been built years ago to stand the strain is hardly noted as a subject for popular indignation.

Eighth, various parts of the country are in incipient stages of economic distress, others are farther advanced while others, especially agricultural sections here and there, seem to have gone through a major readjustment already and appear none the worse for the experience. Indeed the people in the last category reveal a cheerfulness plus a restraint against future speculation that is heartening.

Ninth, prohibition has become an added irritant in many cities and while the wets exhibit the weakness of failing to present a clear-cut alternative, nevertheless the "repeal-the-amendment" signs and tags are springing up everywhere and women seem to have gotten into the fight with a vengeance.

At Bootlegger
The bootlegger is the particular object of their wrath. There is an often expressed feeling too that repeal of prohibition will bring government revenues now filling the pockets of the underworld, but when one seeks to find out what method of distribution is favored, whether beer alone is desired or whether all restrictions on the distribution are to be removed so that any drug can be sold freely, at its social fountain, there is a pause. The answer usually given is "let's repeal the amendment first, and talk about that afterwards." In the rural sections, however, the insistence on knowing what the substitute is to be before agreeing to a repeal of the eighteenth amendment constitutes a barrier of no uncertain strength.

Taken as a whole the states west of the Alleghenies seem to have better morale in facing the economic troubles of the hour than the eastern seaboard. May be it is because agriculture has passed through its worst period and is meeting the dawn. Maybe it is because people in the middle western states have never had any illusions about the readjustment and know what a crop failure means, whereas Manhattan island rarely suffers so much from a business tornado.

Anyway there is something inspiring in the way the west is facing its crisis for it refuses to be lured by catchwords and springing bears the pain of slow but fundamental readjustment as it rigidly prepares to meet whatever may come to test individual as well as social responsibility.

PHIL IN REPLY TO STAND TAKEN BY REALTY BODY

Finds Indications of 'Malice' in Statements Made in Milwaukee

Milwaukee — (P) — Asserting he found indications of "malice" and incorrect knowledge of facts in a recent communication on the Milwaukee Real Estate board regarding relief and taxes, Gov. Philip F. LaFollette today asked the board to ascertain the facts and place them before the people.

The governor's letter said in part: "As I understand your letter you make the following points: '1. That late in October a committee of the Milwaukee Real Estate board conferred with me as to how the burden of relief should be met, and that I stated that the only way that property owners could be saved from paying the full burden of relief would be to increase the income tax so that the income taxpayer would meet a share of the cost of depression.'

"Let me say that you have omitted completely the discussion of the effect of removing from the property taxpayer the necessity of paying two-thirds of the state's road bill, but since the legislature adopted the highway measure which I recommended, the property owners' share of the road bill has been reduced to one half. This was the most that could be obtained from the legislature with the terrific opposition of the press.

Income Tax Plan
"2. You state that the income tax program I proposed for relief created controversy, that you took no part in such controversy, and now wish you had opposed the bill. You mention the measure which finally passed are in your opinion inadequate. The bill which passed was all that the 17 reactionary state senators would agree to take from the wealthy for relief purposes. These senators held that the burden of the depression should be paid by the property taxpayer.

"In your letter there is a vague indication that you are supporting the theory that all income taxes collected should be returned to the state in the form of a refund. I know, for when you consider what this refund would mean, you will reject it. First it would mean that at least one-third of the federal income tax money would be returned to the city of New York. It would mean that in Milwaukee-co River Hills and Fox Point would have practically no property tax while Cudahy, West Allis and Milwaukee would suffer.

"Furthermore, you use the phrase 'rather than state aid with its attendant policy of feeding all of Wisconsin on Milwaukee-co money' and the phrase 'with the possibility, which the balances are donated, that we shall get another $750,000.' These statements are not only errors in fact, as you well know, but they indicate malice."

and that three or four persons were involved, Mills said. Mills declined to give the name of the man, but said he had sent it to the New Jersey police officials investigating the kidnapping.

Hopewell, N. J. — (P) — Search was intensified today for the mysterious gangster, believed to be connected with the Lindbergh baby kidnapping case, who recently said in Maryland before the baby's body had been found, that the child was dead.

Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, superintendent of state police, disclosed for the first time yesterday that this gangster was being sought and today he gave him first mention in his morning bulletin.

Investigators who are investigating the whereabouts of the gangster reported in Maryland and thought to be connected with the case, he said, "have been unable to locate him as yet and are continuing their investigation."

That part of the morning bulletin dealing with matters other than the search for the gangster, follows:
No Identification
"Dr. Condon (the Jafsie who paid a futile $50,000 ransom for return of the murdered baby) was taken to New Rochelle (yesterday) by our investigators to look over the criminal rogues gallery in an effort to identify the man known as John, but failed to make any identification."

"Joseph Perrone (the taxi driver who took a note from the supposed kidnappers to Dr. Condon instructing him about ransom payment) had formerly looked over the criminal rogues gallery in New York city and failed to identify anyone and yesterday he went over the gallery at the state police headquarters in Trenton, but failed to make any identification. He will be taken to another police department today."

The King kidnapping case (a mysterious case thought to have possible connection with the Lindbergh case, mentioned for the first time by Schwarzkopf yesterday) was gone into by our investigators yesterday, but no information of value could be ascertained."

Probe Curtis' Story
The possibility that John Hughes Curtis' story of his astonishing life may in itself have been false in part, received police attention today.

A portion of the Norfolk ship-bulldozer kidnapping case (a mysterious case thought to have possible connection with the Lindbergh case, mentioned for the first time by Schwarzkopf yesterday) was gone into by our investigators yesterday, but no information of value could be ascertained."

Police pointed out that the hoax was three weeks old before Curtis attempted to sell his story; and that even so, he could not hope to find any buyers unless he recovered the stolen Charles Augustus Lindbergh, Jr., which he must have known for a drastic reform in the relations of capital and labor.

Speaking of present economic conditions as "economically unsatisfactory" and "far short of the fulfillment of the Christian standard life," the second report declared, "labor is an indispensable partner in the creation of wealth, yet today we face the fact that society provides no adequate economic security for those who help produce its wealth. Meanwhile, the financial control of the world is tending to be concentrated in the hands of a few, who thereby are able to have luxuries while others are in want, and to exercise undue power over their less favored fellows."

Six Recommendations
For the alleviation of such a condition and to better economic conditions, the report asks the conference to recommend:
1—The replacement of the present policy of "unplanned, competitive individualism by a planned industrial economy definitely aiming at the assurance of economic security by regularity of employment and the consequent elimination of economic uncertainty from the mind of employees.

2—The offsetting of technological and general unemployment by shortening the hours of labor, thus providing that labor "shall share with capital the advantage accruing from the advent of machinery throughout industry."

3—The introduction of unemployment insurance, accident and disability insurance and old age pensions.

4—The abolition of child labor, "which, in addition to its general value for child welfare, will release work now done by children to adult workers."

5—The turning of public income from the "economic waste of the building of armaments to productive employment enriching the common life."

6—An investigation of the needs of the nation for public works to be carried on by federal, state and municipal agencies in periods of business depression and unemployment.

trip she liked better. "On this go I was flying low the whole time and, had to rely on myself.

The aviatrix traveled approximately 1,900 miles between Harbor Grace, N. F., and Culmore, Ireland, and was in the neighborhood of 600 miles north of her set course.

Weather reports from abroad this morning spoke of a persistent southerly wind which was expected to drive the flier north of her goal. A storm was blowing along the French coast in the afternoon.

Londonderry is the capital of the County of Londonderry in north Ireland. It is situated on the Foyle, five miles above Lough Foyle and 123 miles from Dublin.

Second Ocean Flight
Once before, in June, 1932, the flier crossed the ocean in an airplane. But that time she was a passenger. Asked to compare her first flight with her second, she said: "There is no comparison. On this go, I was flying low the whole time and had to rely on myself. I am afraid I am a bit deaf after the terrific roar of the engine in my ears all the time, but at any rate I have done it."

"I want to find out what I shall do," she continued. "I think I may go to London but the only clothes I have with me are the flying suit on me now, and I haven't much cash."

"I'll probably go to London after the weekend but it all depends on what my husband thinks about it."

"I had this trouble (with the exhaust manifold) for about ten hours," the Press association quoted Mrs. Putnam, "and for a lot of the way I was flying through storms—mist, rain and a little fog."

When Mrs. Putnam landed, the Press association said, she declared: "I've done it."

"I had to land here in the pastures outside Londonderry," she continued. "I'm not a bit hurt and I think the plane is all right. I had trouble with my exhaust manifold, which had burned out."

Gas Gauge Broken
"In addition the gasoline gauge" had broken, probably in the storm last night, and there was a little leakage, so I decided to come down. I landed in an open field."

The Press association said Mrs. Putnam telephoned to their office from a hotel at Londonderry. "My first thought on getting here," she said, "was to call up so that my safe landing might be known without delay."

The flier in which the landing was made is a mile or two from Londonderry, the Press association said. The owner of it was the first to greet Mrs. Putnam.

SETS TIME RECORD

New York — (P) — Apparently Amelia Earhart-Putnam set a time record in her flight across the Atlantic.

Her time was 15 hours and 39 minutes. The best previous time, 16 hours and 17 minutes, was made by Tim Gurnea in 1931.

Time comparisons with other flights are not exactly fair as taking off and landing places differ considerably. When Col. Charles A. Lindbergh flew from New York to Paris in 1927 it took him 33 hours and 29 minutes.

TCOK NO FOOD

Culmore, Clister, Ireland, — (P) — Amelia Earhart-Putnam took no food on her flight from Harbor Grace, N. F., to Culmore, Ireland, and she landed almost broke for the time being.

"I have only twenty dollars in United States money in my possession," she said. "That was handed to me as I was leaving. I haven't even a nickel to sign."

You needn't worry about that," said Mr. Gallagher, owner of the field in which she landed. "I will see you through."

HUSBAND "OVERJOINED"

New York — (P) — George Palmer Putnam was informed by telephone from London today in a conversation with the London Daily Sketch that Amelia Earhart, his wife, had landed in Ireland.

Putnam, the correspondent at Londonderry had interviewed Mrs. Earhart after she landed.

"Of course, I'm overjoyed," Putnam said, "but you know her well were sure she'd do it."

"She has more calm courage than any person I ever knew. Please let me thank the Associated Press warmly for being the first to break the news to me."

Three Little Chute people were bruised and cut and a car in which they were riding was damaged by fire at 9:20 last night when the car skidded as the brakes were applied, rolled into a ditch and tipped over on its side on the east side of the city limits.

The car was owned and driven by William Van Hande. The other occupants were John Van Steppen and Theresa Pozak, all of Little Chute. A truck from Appleton fire department was called to the scene of the blaze.

APPLETON'S NEWEST CHURCH
The imposing new church home of First English Lutheran congregation will be dedicated at services tomorrow and the remainder of next week. Citizens of Appleton generally join in congratulating the congregation upon this occasion.
For the congregation the dedication is the realization of a long hope. For many years its faithful members, through sacrifice and hard work, have accumulated the funds and the experience necessary to insure success of their splendid project. This new church is not the expression of a passing enthusiasm, but is rather the fruition of a carefully prepared program. That the congregation had the courage and the confidence to carry out its plans in times like these reflects all the more credit upon the courage and the business acumen of its leaders.
Appleton long has been the envy of other cities because of the character of its church buildings, and this new church adds lustre to this reputation. It takes a well earned place among the most beautiful edifices in the city. Carefully designed for greatest utility, its beauty was enhanced rather than sacrificed to accomplish this end. The congregation and its pastor, the Rev. F. C. Reuter, assuredly deserve the congratulations of Appleton people on their enterprise.

QUESTION: WHO PAYS THE COST?
The more we reflect over the causes that may have been material in the recent 40 per cent increase in liability and property damage automobile insurance rates, the more it appears that the example is an excellent one to bring to attention what happens when the law starts a "soaking process" or assists others in such a purpose, and how, eventually, the people foot the bills.
Take the case of liability insurance. This insurance is not for the purpose of paying for every injury that may be inflicted by the driver of a car. Its purpose is to pay only when the person injured is at legal fault, and then again, and only, that honest amount of damages for which he has become responsible.
In case of inability to settle, a suit is started by the injured person against the driver which must be submitted to and decided by a jury. If the person insured is defeated his company steps up and pays the judgment. Some interested persons became desirous of reaching over and suing the insurance company directly. Ambulance chasers, past and present saw above all others the great profit in this maneuver. And this because experience had taught that a jury is quite careless about the rights of an insurance company and generous in giving its money away when it comes to fixing damages.
Judges have quite invariably opposed this idea because they have seen, day in and day out, how constantly it resulted in rank injustice, the finding of a liability where none existed and the giving of excessive damages in proportion to the injuries suffered.
A law was passed by the legislature some years ago permitting the immediate bringing in of the insurance company. We have been unable to locate any sound or sensible reason for any such law. The only question to be decided in the case is one of fault for the injury and the amount of damages but the presence of the insurance company helps claimants to get a flat verdict.
The last session of the legislature, fearful that because of the words of some policies, all insurance companies could not be sued directly, passed another act reading:
"In any action for damages caused by the negligent operation . . . of a motor vehicle, any insurer . . . by this section is made a proper party defendant."
Twenty-seven circuit courts, about as many municipal courts, and in some places county courts given that special jurisdiction, are almost constantly hearing these injury cases. Bringing in the insurance companies has increased verdicts for claimants and augmented the amount of damages. Leaving insurance companies out would tend to make for fair and true verdicts.

Insurance companies were brought in because the legislature was willing to soak them. Now we find that the insurance companies dodged the blow and it is the people who have been soaked.
So this is the result of the legislative policy: The people are paying 40 per cent more for liability insurance, claimants are receiving more than that to which they are entitled, which benefits the ambulance chasers largely and the insurance companies somewhat because increased rates are almost always beneficial to the company.
Where do the people come in? Are they the same people who cheered when they thought the insurance companies were soaked?
What a splendid and beneficent thing, and what a boomerang, a soaking process is!

THE DANGER OF PRECEDENT
President Hoover's recent direction to the law enforcement agencies and secret service of the federal government, tantamount to a participation in the efforts to apprehend the murderers of the Lindbergh child, was a mistake because it amounts to an unwarranted preference.
Conceding, as the President does, and as is well known, that the federal authorities have no jurisdiction over offenses for either the kidnapping or murder of the child, all of which occurred within the borders of the state of New Jersey, it must be concluded that the President's order resulted from Col. Lindbergh's distinction and probably the President's personal acquaintance with him, both of which serve always to bring closer the sullen horror of such an ugly tragedy.
But this is a democracy and precedents are dangerous.

What will happen when the child of some less renowned parents, who may be unacquainted with the President, is destroyed?
Great public revulsion arises at the crime because of the always strong, tender and eternal bonds of affection that the parental relation invariably creates in normal people. All know that affection, unwavering in the face of disaster and intrepid still when confronted with destruction, is also unaffected in its intensity by the lot in life of the parents, the kind of house in which they live or the distinction that may justly belong to them.
We have but recently seen evidences of the uncommon control which precedents have over our people. Directly after the war our government advanced money to prevent people in many European nations from starving. When our own are in distress they would like to know why they, as well as aliens, cannot share in the federal government's bounty. They listen in ill humor to reasons and explanations including the statement that the government then far exceeded its powers. A precedent had been set. Many refuse to look beyond it.
This order, like the one to feed Europe, goes without protest because the public is not looking for correct orders but results. Then it wanted to save children from the miseries of hunger and malnutrition. Now it wants to save them from a much more alarming peril.

"WUXTRA! WUXTRA!"
For reasons that will be obvious to its readers the Post-Crescent will direct all boys selling any extra edition which it issues to make it clear that they are not merely selling an "extra" but a "Post-Crescent extra."
In addition to its Saturday night extras during the football season, the Post-Crescent will continue its usual policy of issuing extras only when the importance of the news or an anxious condition of the public mind warrants it. It never issues an extra to drum up business or for circulation purposes. It never shouts "fire" unless there is a real conflagration. Invariably its extras cost it money simply because the receipts do not pay for the labor and other expense of publication and distribution. Solely does it issue extras to give readers that high degree of prompt service which it believes is their due.
Thus may the people come to understand that a "Post-Crescent extra" is a real extra and should not be confused with others, as we hope they already understand that the wire service of the Post-Crescent is equal to that of most metropolitan papers and exceeds that of some.

The DO-X was supposed to get going on its trans-Atlantic flight. Poor old DO-X, she's had a lot of tough luck since she started her flying career. Big enough to carry 100 people, too. Wonder how far she'll get. Amelia Earhart put her is planning to go places. Too. Amelia's been over before, but this is the first flight of its kind that she's tried alone. Good luck. Maybe they'll be there by the time this gets into print. And, again, maybe they won't even be started.
Oh gosh, this weather is getting us down, down, down. We wanna go and park underneath a tree and watch the clouds tumble noisily by and hear the leaves whisper as the wind weaves through them. And then maybe sleep for an hour or so and then watch the leaves and the clouds and feel the wind blowing, oh, so gently, and then go to sleep again.
But the column's motorized kiddie-car was washed yesterday for the first time in months and so it'll probably rain.

THE SAFE GOLFER
He is never in a bunker, and he's never in the rough. A drive of ordinary length to him is quite enough. He plays the game the surest way; he never lifts his eye. And never thinks to risk a shot where danger's apt to lie.
This sort of golfer doesn't know the game's supremest thrill—He's never driven two hundred yards, and that's more, never will. He slaps the golf ball down the course, a most complacent soul. Quite satisfied to take a five or six on any hole. He never stamps his foot in rage or flings his clubs in air. The man content with safety doesn't very often swear: He plods his way around the course, but when the game is done He hasn't had much trouble—and he hasn't had much fun.

Personal Health Talks
BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author

CHAPTER IN THE BIOGRAPHY OF A BUSHEL OF WHEAT.
Last summer while passing a farm where they were threshing my husband . . . (Some husbands deserve it, but then again, some wives would not take it so complacently.) . . . stopped and bought a bushel of wheat for 45 cents. It was certainly the most food for a small sum we have ever bought. We are still using from that bushel and like it, and also benefit greatly from eating it. I wash a quantity, about a gallon at a time, all the sticks and chaff float on top. I put the clean wheat in a muslin sugar bag and hang it over the stove or furnace to dry. Aside from cooking the whole grain for a breakfast dish. I sometimes grind it in my food chopper, sift out the fine part with a coarse sieve and use that for whole wheat flour. The coarse part is cracked wheat, and this I cook and use as a breakfast cereal, or mix with eggs and milk for pudding. Like rice pudding, or cook with cheese like spaghetti. We think it is fine in meat loaf, also in soup. Again we like it cooked with meat scraps or liver pudding and molded in bread pans, then sliced and fried.
We think it is a fine food, as well as an exceedingly economical one.
My father, who lives with us, is ninety-one years old and he is in excellent condition physically and mentally. He is very fond of this wheat food in every form. We feel grateful to you for suggesting the use of wheat in the daily menu, and also for many other helpful things we have learned from your column. (Mrs. M. P. Z.)
True enough in your case, perhaps, Madam, but it doesn't work so well for the general run of people, because they're so dumb they actually believe wheat has to be mangled by machinery of some kind or at least wrapped in a pretty package before it becomes fit for human consumption. It is like bringing up a dog. I took five years or more for the Turkish Terror to teach us how to behave when he caught an other dog loose anywhere. Just as long as we got excited and tried to prevent casualties. Tony mixed it with all comers. But when at last we learned to ignore the encounter, Tony refrained from starting any thing unless the other dog got tough.
The wheat growers get a price for their wheat that should bring a blush of shame to the great engineers, economists and statesmen who have led us into the morass. But still the farmers who raise wheat are among the dumbest in regard to the practical uses of wheat in the daily dietary. The time is past when the farmers were hay-seeds, bicks, reubens, suckers for the quacks, patent medicine vendors and goldbrick agents. Today it seems that our agricultural confederates devote its credulity to the selection of food.
QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.
How Many R's.
Perhaps you will think it a foolish question, but I can't find anywhere a clear statement as to the number of R's men and women have. Please tell me whether men have the same number of R's as women do it or not?
Answer—Yes, every man and every woman has 12 pairs of ribs.
Milk Not Binding.
For many years I have taken much milk, because I like it. I notice, however, that if I take too much I become constipated. Is there any way to avoid this when one is taking two or three quarts of milk a day? (D. E. C.)
Answer—The milk is not accountable for the constipation. That is due to lack of other foods, when the diet is almost exclusively milk. Make it a rule to take a fair amount of fresh fruit daily, or even some steeped prunes, or perhaps best of all with milk, bananas.
Nineteen.

The Tynmites
By Hal Cochran

A S Windy started in his plane. He cried, "Some altitude I'll gain and then I'll chase wee Duncy, who's still hanging to his kite."
"I'm sure that I can save the lad and, my, oh my, won't he be glad? Don't worry if I have to sail this ship right out of sight!"
"How does it pedal?" Copy cried.
"And does it tip from side to side?"
"Of course not," answered Windy.
"It's as level as can be."
"It could be tipped. I do not doubt, but that would promptly throw me out. I'll keep away from that, though. It is merely up to me."
And then he turned the wee ship's nose toward the sky and cried, "Here goes!" The Tynies saw him rise real fast. "He's doing fine," said one of them.
"I hope that Duncy's still all right and hanging to his little kite. When Windy, finally rescues him, 'twill be a lot of fun."
By now wee Windy felt at ease. Far, far below he saw small trees that looked just like a blanket. "What a funny sight," thought he. And then he spotted Duncy, near. He shouted, "Hi, there! Have no fear. Just hang on to the kite. You'll soon be safe as safe can be."
"All right, yelled Windy. "Get below me with your plane and then I'll show you how to drop down on the tail. Now please don't swerve around."
Then Windy did that very thing and Duncy, with a sudden swing, sailed through the air and landed on the small plane, safe and sound.
"Hurrah!" yelled Windy. "We're good! And now, I frankly think we should go right back to the others. They are not so far from here."
He turned the little plane around and started to descend to the ground. The Tynies saw them coming and let out a merry cheer.
"Copy gets a scare in the next story!"
WELL YES, WELL NO — THAT DOESN'T GO
Independence, Mo.—They brought in Oscar Irwin, Negro, to face Judge Stewart on a drunk-and-charges.
"You are charged with being drunk," said the Judge. "Are you guilty?"
"Well, Judge, I wouldn't say I was," came the reply.
"Well, were you sober?" queried the Judge.
"No, I wouldn't say I was, Judge. I was just drinking," replied Oscar. "You don't remember much about what happened, do you?" came the next court question.
"Well, I wouldn't say I did and I wouldn't say I didn't," the prisoner answered.
That was about enough for Judge Stewart so he fined Oscar $5 and granted a stay on the fine.

MORE ON ECONOMY
Editor of Post-Crescent — I have viewed with a great deal of interest the question of the City of Appleton providing money for supervised play and let me say that I believe it to be a regrettable matter when one reads and hears of how our city council is conducting itself with reference to that question.
If our city fathers really have the interests of all the taxpayers in mind and if they practice what they preach in the line of economy in city affairs, then why do they try and reverse themselves by doing differently than they had planned when the budget was set for this year.
It is my understanding that the budget did not provide for any money to be spent for supervised play and if that is true then why does the council try and spend money which is not provided for as that means that such money and all other money spent which was not provided for must be raised next year and will mean that the loans of the city will be larger, because that money will have to be borrowed.
It is however a pleasure to know that an alderman like Wenzel Hassmann of the fifth ward has the courage of his convictions to stand up and oppose this appropriation, because he can see far enough ahead to realize that the city cannot afford to pay out money for pleasure which will have to be used to feed and clothe the poor. Certainly it is of a more worthy cause to feed the poor than it is to provide money for pleasure and it is too bad that we do not have more aldermen in our city council like Mr. Hassmann. More power to him and even if he stands with the minority the people are alert to what such men are trying to do for the benefit of the masses.
Yours very truly,
Economy First.

Don't Tell Child He's High Hatted

BY ANGELO PATRI

One little word used in the wrong place, in the wrong sense, can make a world of trouble. Children are inarticulate where their feelings are in question and as they are creatures of feeling for the main part, this means that they are under a severe strain most of the time when they are in association with adults.

School, church, home, are adult in their outlook. The child they are trying to teach is not at all adult. And he is choked by feeling that is what makes it so hard to help him.

The use of the right word is painfully important. Hit on it and the child is delighted to follow you. His mind unfolds. All the delightful experiences that rise in his spirit when he feels himself understood comes him, lend him ease and power. He is happy, alert and actively growing.

Use the wrong word and instantly, with the speed of lightning, he closes up tight. There is nothing tighter than the mind of a child that has recoiled. It is useless to batter your words against him. You are through for that time. The sooner you turn your attention from the point in view the better. Take up another one and try to make it happen.

If there is one word more than another that frets a child it is the one that implies he considers himself better than others. Children are essentially group minded. They hate to be told they are trying to be different. Nothing offends a child so as to be told he is high hatted his fellows. He closes up. He is resistant. He is angered. When you have made that mistake just keep still. And don't do it again.

Tommy was invited to attend a summer school that a wise woman opened for all children who were to spend the summer at home in the little town where she lived. She fitted the school under the advice of the day school principal who thought of the summer school as an extension of the day school. Tommy went for a day and quit.

"I'm not going to that old school any more. Some old books, same old teacher, same old everything. Haven't even a decent hammer in the place."

The teacher called to see why Tommy did not attend classes. "He says he doesn't like it," said his anxious mother. "I wish he did, but he does not want to go and I said he needn't if he didn't want to. I must keep my word."

"What's the matter with you, Tommy? You're no better than any other boy in town. They go. Think you're too good, do you?"

That settled it. Tommy shut his mouth so tight you could hear his jaw creak and Mother sent him out to see if any tears had fallen since morning.

Don't make that mistake. Never attack a child in that personal way and NEVER, if you value your associations with him, NEVER tell him he thinks himself too good. It is fatal.

Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, inclosing stamped, addressed envelope for reply.

The largest formal dance in the history of Lawrence college, the Pan-hellenic ball, will be held this evening at the North Shore Country club with approximately 250 couples attending. The dance is being sponsored jointly by eight college sororities. Committees have been making arrangements for the ball for two months.

A grand march led by Miss Ruth Nickel, Wausau, who was elected Queen of the twenty-sixth annual May fete held at the college this afternoon, will be one of the features of the dance. Following her in order will be retiring presidents of sororities, then newly elected presidents, and finally members of the sororities and their escorts.

Chaperones include Mr. and Mrs. Warren Beck, Dr. and Mrs. M. M. Bober, Mr. and Mrs. F. T. Cloak, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Clapp Jr. and Mrs. F. W. Trezise, and Dean and Mrs. Carl J. Waterman. ## Don't wait for toothache to jab your memory

Teeth have a way of letting you know they want attention — and of getting it, most decidedly. When toothache jabs your memory about the condition of your teeth, nothing else can have your full attention at the time. Don't wait to be reminded. Consult a competent Dentist at regular intervals for examination and avoid any such unpleasant reminders — it is usually too late when they do remind you, anyway.

Do not think that no toothache means no trouble. Let a Dentist find and stop the trouble before the ache begins.

THE STORY OF SUE
 By Margery Hale

JOE RAYNOR APOLOGIZES TO RUTH

THE steps that came on the porch at the Thornton home were slow, weary. Not so buoyant.

"It's Dr. Raynor again. I'll go upstairs. He probably wants to beg your forgiveness without having me around," Sue said.

"I would rather you wouldn't," Ruth said. "I don't want to see him alone. Still, maybe it would be more tactful."

Sue started up the steps. Quickly, so she would be out of sight by the time Ruth opened the door. The heavy knocker had reverberated around the room twice before Ruth finally slipped back the bolt.

"You've come in?" she asked. Her voice reminded her of the one that she had used when she was very small and had answered the door when her mother had guests who meant nothing to her. She was very, very polite. But that was all.

"Thank you," Raynor came in and put his hat on a table. He reached in his pocket and produced a leather case from which he took some cards and pieces of paper. Ruth recognized one of them as the check.

"You probably will be glad," he said then, "You win. It was my handwriting. It certainly wasn't yours."

"So you took some of mine along, too, to make sure?" Ruth asked. "Where did you get it?"

"I went to the office. I got it from one of your reports."

"How interesting! Her lips twisted a little. But she could laugh at herself now. She had saved a letter of his... maybe two or three... and used them. But he had to take her nurse's report to find out what her handwriting was like. But men were men, and women were women, and that was the way that the game was written, she supposed.

An old poem began to drift through her mind while Joe Raynor, seeing her, yet seeing her too plainly.

"This is the way the wide world over, One is the loved and the other the lover..."

She couldn't get it quite right. There was something she knew about "one gives and the other forgets..." It was true.

Then the man's voice brought her back again.

"Your handwriting is nothing like the sample. It's mine, all right. Sally evidently needed my protection and was afraid to ask for it. Of course she intended to make this up to Sue. I imagine that she will be able to explain everything. It was a bad gesture on her part... but not malicious."

"It wasn't malicious to blame me for things I didn't do, either?" Ruth asked. She had the upper hand now. The physician was bewildered, tired. His house of blocks had tumbled. He was a small boy who didn't know how to put it up again. But Ruth felt no desire to help him. Instead she wanted to take the toe of her slipper and kick the blocks farther and farther apart so it would take him a long, long time to put them together again. He hadn't believed her... he had spurned her... he could suffer!

"I'm sorry, Ruth. I apologize. I was a cad."

"Not at all." That company voice again. "How could you know which one of us was telling the truth? And Sally is your fiancée. Of course you would believe her." But a little thread of superiority got tangled in the satin skein of her tone.

"Ruth..." Something in his tone made her glance up quickly.

NEXT: Sally appears.

KEEP YOUR EYES CLEAR, BRIGHT AND SPARKLING

BY ALICIA HART

There is only one right way to greet spring. That is with clear, appreciative eyes that see beauty.

You can do a lot to make your eyes that way. For when you yourself look nice, the whole world looks nice to you!

Watch your eyelids. Wrinkled lids make you look older and tired. Keep them greasy. Put oil on nights, with a gentle massage. Oil them after powdering, just before you step forth to conquer your job, your latest "best bet," or your whole social group at some party.

Moist-looking eyelids give you a languid look that is alluring. Moreover, it's a young look. What more can you ask!

Don't leave your lids dripping. The sophisticated knows just how to wipe it off so that only the gleam remains to make folks wonder how your lovely eyes got that way.

If you don't know what to do for your eyelashes, put in one evening learning. Mascara can be used so that it doesn't show but just makes your lashes look as if they are well-brushed and well cared for. This brushing and the mascara itself doesn't hurt the lashes, even one little bit. It helps them!

Have you ever had your eyes-lashes curled? Well, it's being done and moreover you can do it yourself. There's a little eye lash curler that grabs ahold of your lashes and makes them curl up in back, in spite of their natural straight-laced tendencies.

Just try curling them once. Curled lashes do much the same softening thing to your eyes' appearance that curls about the face do for your features. There's magic of a sort in curly lashes and after all, Spring was made for magic.

WE WOMEN

By Virginia Vane

WORRY ABOUT SOCIAL POSITION CAUSES THIS UNHAPPINESS

Dear Virginia Vane: I live in a small city where everybody knows everything about his neighbors' family tree. I have long been aware that mine was anything to be proud of.

My family are good kind people, but they don't count for anything with the four hundred. The newspaper which I have with a boy who's family think they're the cream of the earth and most everyone in the city thinks so too. The boy is seemingly in love with me and we are very happy together, often talking marriage and planning our future.

Still he has never once invited me to his home to meet his people which hurts my pride very much. I think he is ashamed of me and my family. I cannot ask him to invite me to his home but I am constantly worried about his omission to do so.

This hurts more than I can say and I find myself getting bitter and resentful against him. Can you give me a word of good advice on the matter?

DISTRESSED.

In the first place, the knowledge of your family's position in society has evidently bitten deep into your soul. Maybe you've suffered from it at school with friends who were taught to believe that nothing could ever come from the wrong side of the railroad tracks and who made you feel this attitude. Anyway the chances are a hundred to one that you're rather obsessed on the subject.

Consequently you're apt to translate all sorts of little thoughtless acts and deeds into terms of snobishness and this probably causes you infinitely more hurt and misery than you'd ever have to suffer if your attitude was more normal.

Now, you know, it isn't really customary for boys to bring their girls home to meet the family—not unless wedding bells are very much threatened.

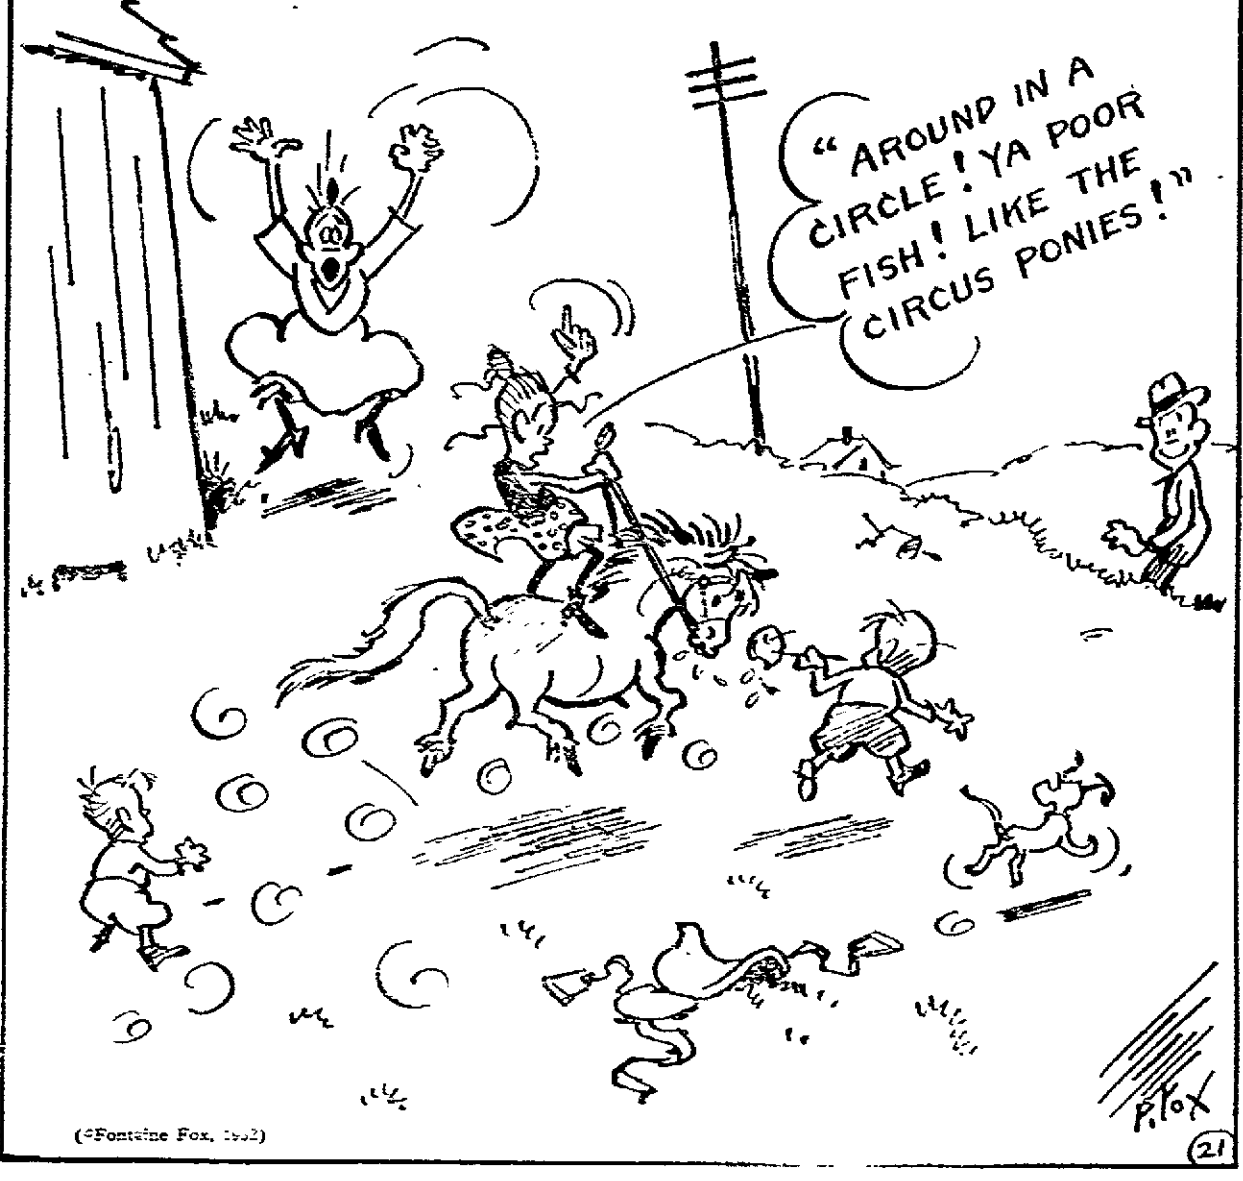

In a family where the mother is a busy club-woman and the father is a tired business man, the children take care of their own affairs and the son of the family is usually a relictant young fellow who doesn't dream of confiding in his elders that he's infinitely attracted to a certain young woman. Most of the time he keeps his love affairs right out of sight of the family eye—particularly in a household which you describe as the "cream of society."

Therefore, since you two are not engaged, nobody very much interested in having sunny bring home his little playmate for dinner and I should think very likely your affinity for this attitude and kept his lady love out of the family picture as much as possible.

Certainly if you were one of the girls in his crowd, his mother would be more likely to know you and to invite you naturally to her home. But it's no easy task for him to get you invited when you're a total stranger and have no more claim on

Hughes Victorious Over Censors Of "Scarface"

BY JESSIE HENDERSON (Copyright, 1932, by Cons. Press)

Hollywood — (CFA) — Following his victory over the New York board of censors last week Howard Hughes, millionaire independent producer of "Hell's Angels" and "The Front Page" plan to fight out in the courts any attempt of the censors in any other state to ban his picture "Scarface." Only a handful of state censorship boards are still trying to prevent the showing of the picture which is based on official reports of gang crimes taken chiefly from newspaper and court records in Chicago. In many of the big cities where it has so far been shown the picture has broken recent box office records.

Hughes contends that opposition to "Scarface" was promoted by dishonest politicians because the picture dealt with "unpleasant political truths." He censured the censors in several states of "ulterior and political motives." The New York censors, who at first forbade the exhibition of "Scarface" in any form, finally placed their stamp of approval on the original version of the picture with a few changes when Hughes, with a battery of attorneys, was on the eve of taking his case to court.

Amnys Notables According to the Hughes organization there are many and murky undercurrents beneath the surface opposition to "Scarface." Unburied mounds by both national and motion picture policies. According to the Hays organization, this idea is nonsense. According to Hollywood, where a whispering campaign against the picture attained considerable proportions, one trouble is that certain movie notables are annoyed because Hughes purchased the story "Queen People," an exposé of Hollywood, and intends to make a picture out of it.

Be this as it may, "Scarface" has had a chequered career. At a good deal of expense in time and money Hughes made many changes in the film at the suggestion of the Hays office and of censors. Still the censorship authorities withheld their approval and when it was demanded that the title be changed, in deference to "Scarface" Al Capone, Hughes got mad and released his film in its original version. Those who have seen the film, this writer among them, agree that it differs from the majority of other gang films chiefly in being better acted than most, in the inclusion of real incidents such as the Chicago Valentine day massacre in a complete absence of glorification of the gangster.

If hope for the benefit of other producers as well as himself, Hughes said today, "that censorship in the future will not be exercised against films of this calibre, for the public is entitled to know what is going on in this country. And I hope, too, that Mr. Will Hays, leader of our industry, will be impelled by the victory to wage renewed battle against the 'unpatriotic' forces of censorship which he has repeatedly denounced in his public utterances as 'un-American.'"

I regard the victory over the New York censors as not only a personal victory but as a real triumph for the independence of the screen."

TENNESSEE PARTY IS FOR GOV. ROOSEVELT

Nashville, Tenn. — (AP) — Tennessee Democracy prepared today to throw its entire support behind the presidential aspirations of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt.

The state convention, delegates to which are predominantly pro-Roosevelt, was regarded as certain to instruct the national delegation to cast Tennessee's 24 votes for the New York governor's nomination.

the family's attention than that their boy has a crush on you.

When there's a real engagement in sight, then it'll be time for you to meet the old folks and then I am sure the hero of the piece will do what is right and proper about having you welcomed by the family.

I have given much space to this problem because so many girls in the same position as Distressed, work themselves into a fury of hurt pride over fancied slights which are quite unintentionally administered.

Try to get a nice healthy attitude about yourself. Distressed, and to be proud of your family's good qualities and to have confidence in your own ability to take your place anywhere in the world. Don't let your mind curl up and die because you weren't born into the four hundred. Be proud of what you stand for.

And the result will be that life becomes far easier for you. You won't worry about trifles. You won't read insults into meaningless little acts. You'll be far more reasonable and far happier if you can become your own special inferiority complex once and for all.

'POOK WHITE' CLASH

The never-ending conflict between poor white trash and negroes in the isolated backwoods land of an American state provides the theme of "Amber Satyr" by Roy Flannagan.

The central figure of this novel is a colored man—a tawny giant of a man, who lives on the fringes of a lonely swamp and works as farm hand for a down-at-the-heels white man.

This employer is a chronic invalid and a chronic failure, inferior to the black man in every way but the color of his skin. And his wife, restless and highly-strung, finds her husband a weakling, a poor stick of a man who hardly deserves comparison with his African servant. So she becomes enamored of the black man.

Discovering her attitude, the frightened negro runs away and becomes a laborer in the state capital and while he is there he joins with other swamp negroes in a queer "racial equality" fight—an effort to get the legislature to recognize the swamp negroes as Indians instead of negroes, so that they will not need to observe Jim Crow laws.

This effort fails, naturally enough, and the luckless negro is deported back to his home by the white woman's male relatives, who have found out how she feels about things and is quietly killed.

All of this makes a story of unrelieved tragedy; but Mr. Flannagan has handled things competently, and he keeps your attention to the end. You'll find "Amber Satyr" interesting—and instructive. It is published by Doubleday, Doran and Co. and costs $2.

Chicago—Dean W. W. Whitehouse of Albion college, believes couples should become acquainted before they marry. To that end he has proposed a "know-your-own-mate" week during which data on health, family background, education, earning ability, sense of humor, taste and temperament should be looked up.

Motion Picture Theatres Offer Wide Variety Of New Productions

ROBINSON IS STAR OF "TWO SECONDS"

Famous Character Actor to Appear in Picture at Theatre

For the first time in his screen career, Edward G. Robinson will be seen as a lover when his latest First National starring vehicle, "Two Seconds," is flashed on the Appleton Theatre screen midnite show tonight for its first showing. It also plays Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

Heretofore associated with either lawless or heartless characters, Robinson turns to the characterization of an ordinary human being who had more than his share of extraordinary trials and difficulties in his struggle to make his way in this world. As John Allen, hero of "Two Seconds," Robinson portrays a man who has been double-crossed by love and who, despite all his efforts to save his honor, falls defeated at every turn. In this, his most dramatic intensity which is said to exceed in emotional power any of the star's past performances.

Mervyn LeRoy, director of "Five Star Final," and "Little Caesar," in both of which Robinson created a sensation, in his direction of "Two Seconds," introduced many innovations in camera and directorial technique.

The large supporting cast features Preston Foster, who plays the same part he had in the Broadway production of "Two Seconds," Vivienne Osborne, stage and screen star, and Guy Kibbee. Important roles are portrayed by J. Carroll Nash, Adrienne Dore, Walter Walker, Burton Churchill, William Janney and Edward McVade. The players were specially selected with an eye toward the specific types they were called upon to play.

PROP MEN BUSY IN "MAN ABOUT TOWN"

The departments that work behind the scenes of the Hollywood motion picture studios are often obscured by the glamour of photoplay making. They are appreciated by the players and directors but the public seldom hears of them. The property department is one of the unsung indispensable of every studio.

The inside of foreign embassy, the homes of international diplomats, a well-patronized gambling house, the inner offices of the United States Secret Service—all of these had to be made as close to the real as was humanly possible without transporting Washington to Hollywood.

STRONG DRAMATIC ROLE IS PLAYED BY HARDING

Heralding a departure in the type of role she has brought to the screen is the characterization to be given by Ann Harding in "Prestige," which opens at the Elite Theatre next Thursday and Friday.

Miss Harding is said to have a role marked by intense drama rather than the brittle comedy of "Holiday," or the Baroque virtuosity of "Devotion." "Prestige," presented as a woman who pits herself and her standards against the insidious forces of the jungle.

Flashing on to the screen is "Prestige," which Tey Garnett directed, are Guy Bates Post, Ian MacLaren, Clarence Muse, Carmelita Geraghty and Creighton Hale.

"NIGHT COURT" DRAMA OF CITY CORRUPTION

Philips Holmes, Walter Huston, Anita Page, Lewis Stone and Jean Herscholt head the impressive cast of "Night Court," today at the Fox Theatre.

Filmed under the direction of W. S. Van Dyke, this picture offers one of the most sensational stories of political corruption ever presented on the screen. It focuses its attention upon a night court magistrate who uses his office to further his activities in the underworld. Huston plays the unscrupulous jurist who presents a respectable side to the public but shows quite another to his nefarious associates. Holmes is seen as a taxi driver whose home is undermined by the machinations of the crooked magistrate but who ultimately brings the dishonest judge before his own bar of justice. Miss Page enacts the machinations of the crooked magistrate's daughter and sent to prison as she had her lips from judicial investigations.

Come between 9:00 P. M. tonight and see today's program plus a preview of Sunday's feature.

STELLAR COMEDY TRIO COMING HERE SOON

A stellar comedy trio, composed of Buster Keaton, Jimmy "Shenozle" Durante and Polly Moran does its share to attempt to lift the current depression blues in "The Passionate Plumber," which, heralded as M-G-M's latest laugh riot, will open Monday at the Elite Theatre for 3 days.

The three are said to have side-splitting adventures in a story which depicts the derring do of a plumber who becomes the guardian in a series of riotous experiences in his attempt to prevent the girl from succumbing to the charms of a two-timing gigolo.

The romantic affair between the long-nosed Durante and the belligerent Polly Moran also holds its share of laughs and the note of the high-keyed merriment is carried through various scenes which reach a climax in a furious domestic tangle in which crockery and glassware are hurled about much in the manner of the highly amusing quarrel sequence of "Private Lives."

Irene Purcell, who scored opposite Robert Montgomery in "The Man in Possession," has a prominent part in the comedy proceedings and the cast also includes Gilbert Roland and Mona Marks.

"CARNIVAL BOAT" IS PICTURE OF ROMANCE

Bill Boyd as a young lumberman and Ginger Rogers as the star of a carnival show-boat troupe form the romantic duo in "Carnival Boat," RKO Pathe's romance of the big terrors, which plays for the last three today at the Appleton Theatre.

Bill made love to the fiery-haired Ginger in "Suicide Fleet," but in "Carnival Boat," his love for the little entertainer plays a much bigger part in the story. His father's opposition to his affection for Ginger brings about some of the biggest dramatic scenes in the picture.

The romance between Boyd and Rogers is set against a fast moving background of action in a big logging camp and a show boat. Thrills are injected with the breaking up of a log-jam, the wrecking of a heavily loaded, runaway logging train and Bill's trip across the mountain peaks on a "high-line" with only a log between him and a 250 foot drop to oblivion.

"Carnival Boat" is from an original story by Marion Jackson and Don Ryan. The screen play was written by James Seymour and directed by Albert Rogell.

The cast includes Fred Kohler, Hobart Bosworth, Marie Prevost, Edgar Kennedy, Harry Sweet, Charles Sellon and Walter Percival.

A TOOTHACHE MORSEL. Knoxville, Tenn.—Charles Seaman is recovering after having bitten himself in the throat. No, he is not a contortionist. It was a case

"LETTY LYNTON" IS MODERN DRAMA

Joan Crawford and Robert Montgomery Play Leading Roles in Picture

"Letty Lynton," sensational drama of modern society and its reckless diversions, with Joan Crawford and Robert Montgomery teamed in the principal roles, is the attraction opening Monday at the Fox Theatre. Adapted from Marie Belloc Lowndes' famous novel, the film presents an amazing picture of modern life. Its locale ranges from the colorful tropic charm of South America to the night life of New York with a spectacular sequence played on a great ocean liner.

A Dangerous Affair. The story is that of an heiress whose preoccupation with the new "feminine freedom" entangles her in a dangerous affair with an ardent South American lover. When she ultimately leaves him for her true love, an American, she is subsequently involved in a sensational scandal which results in the South American's death with all fingers pointing to her as the murderer.

The outbreak makes for an intriguing drama of the first order, giving both Mrs. Crawford and Montgomery every opportunity for effective portrayals.

Among the film's high-powered episodes are the dramatic scene in which the girl attempts to break off relations with the ruthless South American, the sensational discovery of his death in a New York hotel, the battle of wits in the district attorney's office and the dramatic clash in the girl's home.

HORSEMANSHIP, GUN FIGHTS IN NEW FILM

Daring feats of horsemanship together with thrilling gun duels and numerous fistie encounters, go to make up the stirring plot of "The Fighting Marshal," at the Elite Theatre today and Sunday. The program includes in addition to "The Fighting Marshal," Laurel and Hardy in their second feature length comedy, "Beau Hunks."

MAY CENTRALIZE AVIATION RADIO

Chicago — A plan suggested by one of the large air transport companies here would coordinate all independent radio systems controlling air commerce in the country under one head to make a more efficient service for pilots.

The idea is to link all airway radio transmitting stations under the head of Aeronautical Radio, a public utility subsidiary of air mail operators.

By pooling resources and personnel under one head, it is thought possible to supply frequent weather reports, communications to operation personnel in flight, and private messages to passengers by a two-way radiotelephone system.

All planes flying a regularly operated line would benefit by this service, it is understood.

Your Birthday

WHAT TOMORROW MEANS TO YOU By MARY BLAKE "GEMINI"

If May 22nd is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are, from 9 a. m. to 11 a. m., from 3:30 p. m. to 4:30 p. m. and from 8:30 p. m. to 10 p. m. The danger periods are from noon to 1:35 p. m. and from 6 p. m. to 7:30 p. m.

An at home Sunday would be an astrologer's advice for May 22nd, preparatory to an unusually strenuous week ahead. No adverse indications for the day, and a maximum of good will be derived from whatever source you seek pleasure, rest, or comfort.

Children born on this May 22nd, will have independent and forceful temperaments, combined with more than average vitality. Parents should strive to direct this vitality into constructive channels, for without some natural outlet, these children are apt to become restless and irritable. They will be quick, ready-witted, a trifle brusque in manner, but will make excellent companions.

Born on May 22nd, you are generous and kind-hearted to a fault. You readily forgive in others what they quickly would condemn in you. Yet, this unselfish and warm-hearted attitude wins for you many a dear and loyal friend. You are very much alive and vital to the joys of living, and even small everyday happenings enlist your interest and sympathy. You are sensitive and imaginative in your dealings with others—their troubles sadden you; in their joys, you find happiness. You are inclined to underestimate your own ability and to overrate the ability of others. You often let chances go by not feeling yourself quite up to the mark, whereas in truth, you are more than capable and by your adaptability are equal to any situation.

You should cultivate more ambition and self-confidence, and give your talents a chance for growth. You are sitting in a back seat from choice and not from necessity. You need have less fear of the unknown than most people. There is something delightfully charming about your shyness, but, nevertheless, it is a detriment to you in the business side of life. All children make an appeal to you through your maternal or paternal instinct, as the case may be, and with a sympathetic mate, you home life should be ideal.

WHAT TOMORROW MEANS TO YOU

By MARY BLAKE "GEMINI"

If May 23rd is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 8:15 a. m. to 9:30 a. m., from 2 p. m. to 3:40 p. m., and from 7:20 p. m. to 9 p. m. The danger periods are from 11 a. m. to 12:45 p. m. and from 5 p. m. to 6:30 p. m.

A despondent mood will be your general on May 23rd, and more hills will assume mountainous proportions, both within and outside of the domestic circle. The world will not be out of tune, but you will be decidedly out of step with the world, thus asking for trouble. Those past midlife-age should guard against spring colds, as the Planets are dangerously placed for them in regard to their health.

Children born on this May 23rd will be very easily influenced, both one way and another, and will possess the dualistic tendencies of Gemini people. They will excel in mental pursuits, but will dislike physical activity. They will begin things with enthusiasm, and quit most things with boredom.

Born on May 23rd, you would like to ride through life in a "de luxe" fashion, but without paying the preliminary price of sacrifice an effort, which might be necessary to secure such a passage. You love beautiful things, and luxurious material comforts. From choice you would choose smart clothes to those which are durable and practical. You prefer the dangers of racy and spectacular events and situations to the security of something plain and wholesome. There is, however, enough common sense in your make-up to offset any extreme nonsense, although these opposing elements will always be at war with each other.

Hospitality is one of your natural virtues and the best you have is none too good for your guests of the moment. You cannot be bothered, however with formal entertainings. Children and animals single you out for friendship, and whether street urchins and cubs of "mother's darlings" and thorough-breds, they all find you an understanding and playful pal. Your own children would probably be pampered and spoiled.

By nature you are not diligent, but you know when and how to trade on your charms. Your brain is active, artistic, and far-seeing, and your work should be mental not manual.

Big Movement On Foot To Raise Picture Standards

BY JESSIE HENDERSON
Copyright, 1932, by The Cons. Press. Hollywood—(CPA)—There are now approximately three thousand sections of the nation where a definite movement is on foot to raise the standards of motion pictures in the community. This movement is actively supported today by 30,000 women. The figures are revealed in a report by Mrs. Thomas G. Winter, associate director of public relations for the Association of Motion Picture Producers.

The films most suited for family entertainment are a special concern of this group. They have "preview officers" stationed in Hollywood, representatives whose duty it is to attend all previews and to make monthly reports of all productions. By using a "recommended list" of films which fall under the family entertainment heading, the preview officers also indicate which films are suitable for older adolescents and which for the young.

Among films in the current list "licked" as suitable for a family are such pictures as "Avantgarde," "The Bride," "With a Friend as a Friend," "The Dark Horse," "The Man from New Mexico," and "Destiny Rides Again."

List Latest Hits
Pictures listed as best suited for adults and older adolescents include "A Successful Calamity," "Caliente," "Street of Women," "Week End Marriage," "All's Pinkerton of Scotland Yard," "The Trial of Vivienne Ware," and "The Tenderfoot." The adult pictures on the list for the month of May include "Grand Hotel," "The Crowd Roars," "Probation," "The World and the Flesh," "This is the Night," "The Jewel Robbery," "The Mouthpiece," "Night Court," "The Roadhouse Murder," "Scandal for Sale," "Sin's Pity Day," "The Strange Case of Clara Deane," and "The Woman in Room 18." The list gives some idea of how busy a preview officer is in Hollywood, leading from film to film with dizzy speed.

Mrs. Winter reports that as a result of the preview officers' activity and of the consequent reaction of the 30,000 women there is a decided change in the film standards of many districts. In particular the showbusiness in smaller cities and towns, as well as the neighborhood theatres located outside the metropolitan area in large cities are "encouraged to select films that are free of themes which might be objectionable to all-family audiences." Among the groups cooperating through representatives here are the American Library association, Boy Scouts of America, General Federation of Women's Clubs, International Federation of Catholic Alumnae, Daughters of the American Revolution, Parent-Teachers Association of California, National Council of Jewish Women, Women's University club, National Society of New England Women and the United Church Brotherhood of California.

INSURANCE COMPANIES SOUND OPTIMISTIC NOTE

Wausau—(CP)—Two associated insurance companies, The Employers' Mutual Liability and the Employers' Mutual Indemnity Corporation, founded a note of optimism at annual meetings today.

The liability company, which writes workmen's compensation insurance only, reported a profit for the year of $43,000, of which $443,000 was returned to policy holders in the form of dividends. Its premium income for 1931 was $2,955,000.

The Mutual Indemnity Corporation, which handles all liability insurance except workmen's compensation, showed profits of $269,000, and returned to policy holders $194,000. Its income from premiums was $851,000.

The same set of directors serve both companies. Directors, all of whom were reelected, are: Ben Alexander, Wausau; Charles S. Boyd, Appleton; Angus R. Callender, Racine; Albert P. Funk, La Crosse; W. W. Vincent, Kenosha; H. L. Geise, Wausau; and Harold S. Falk, Milwaukee. M. P. McCullough is president of the board and H. J. Hagge is president of the companies.

Chlorine gas was discovered in 17 by Scheele, and was then called dephlogisticated muriatic acid. The first use of this gas during the World war was on April 22, 1915, when the Germans employed it in an attack against British and French troops.

Aged Psychologist Wills Brain To Chicago Friend

"It will be just a little memento of our long friendship," Gale explained. Dr. Lassley, he said, is to use the brain, if possible, in his experiments regarding location of function of brain centers.

800 PIPES BUILT IN CHURCH ORGAN

Church Tower Contains Amplifier for Organ
Music

The new Wangerin organ in the new First English Lutheran church is one of the largest and finest musical instruments of its kind in Appleton. The instrument, with its 15 stops and more than 800 pipes, was donated to the church by the Ladies Aid and Missionary society.

Provisions have been made to install five more stops in the two manual organ. The console is located on the north side of the chancel in the rear of the right choir stalls. The battery of large and small pipes is hidden behind three grills in the upper part of the wall on the left side of the chancel, and in the nave.

The church tower has been equipped with amplifying units, the large organ pipe running from under the church floor to the spire. Provisions have been made so organ music can be broadcast from the tower, amplifying the sound so that it will carry for a mile or more.

More than a week's time was required to install the big instrument.
Three installers from the Wangerin organ plant in Milwaukee were in charge of the work.

First Pastor

The Rev. Paul Nesper, first pastor of First English Lutheran church, returns here Sunday from Wheeling, W. Va., to be the chief speaker at the dedication of the new church.

ONLY 2 PASTORS IN 16 YEARS OF CHURCH HISTORY

College Classmates Have Directed Congregation
Since Its Infancy

With the dedication of its beautiful new church edifice Sunday, First English Lutheran congregation will leave off its nomad ways and settle down permanently for the first time in the 16 years since its birth.

The congregation, organized on May 18, 1915, has held services in practically everything from the Jewish temple to a theatre. Its home from 1917 until the new church was completed was a one-story chapel on the site of the present church.

The development of the church has been the work of two men who were classmates at Capital university at Columbus, Ohio, in 1914. Both seniors in 1914 and 1915, Paul W.
Nesper was called by the home mission board to organize the Appleton church, and F. C. Reuter was called to the pastorate of Martin Luther church in Detroit, Mich. The two young men took their examinations early, were ordained in April, and immediately took over their first pastorates.

Came Here in 1915
Mr. Nesper was ordained and installed as pastor of the local mission on April 23, 1915, at Zion Lutheran church, which sponsored the inception of the new mission. Services were held in Zion Lutheran parish hall until July 18, 1915, when the congregation moved to Zion temple, corner of Durkee and Harris sts.

On May 21, 1916, the property at the corner of North and Dray-sts., where the new church is located,
was purchased from Frank Wright.
While the one-story chapel was being built on this site, services were held in the Majestic theatre on College-ave. The chapel, a frame structure seating 150 persons, was dedicated on Feb. 15, 1917, and on May 30, 1920, an annex providing seating room for an additional hundred per-number of years, was moved to make room for the new edifice to be sons, space for the Sunday school and a parish hall, was completed.

Mr. Nesper was called to the Detroit church when Mr. Reuter transferred to Lakeville, Ohio, but chose to stay in Appleton. However, in July, 1920, he accepted the position of assistant manager of the Lutheran book concern at Columbus, Ohio, and Mr. Reuter accepted the call to the Appleton church. Inasmuch as Mr. Reuter was unable to come until January, 1921, the Rev. Arthur Nicholson, now a missionary in India, took charge of the congregation during the interim.

When Mr. Reuter was installed, on Jan. 9, 1921, the membership of the church was 139. Now there are 500 communicant members.

More property, the Fred Hartung lots on Ida and North-sts., adjoining the original purchase, was bought in October, 1921.

Free From Debt
On Jan. 13, 1924 a special service celebrating the fact that the congregation had become self-supporting was held, and in November, 1923, the church became free from debt.
On Feb. 18, 1925 the seventh anniversary of the dedication of the chapel, the congregation started its fund for a new church, and in October, 1930, with $40,000 in the building fund, the building committee began to function. In January, 1931 the committee was authorized to

CORNERSTONE LAID SEVEN MONTHS AGO

Ministers Who Took Part in That Ceremony Help in Dedication

The reddish brown marble cornerstone on the new completed First English Lutheran church, bearing the inscription, "Dedicated A. D. 1932" was laid in ceremony seven months ago, Sunday, Oct. 18, before 500 spectators. Some of the time the beautiful corner edifice has risen, to be dedicated next Sunday, with each of the five pastors who took part in the ceremony assisting with the dedication week services.

These pastors include the Rev. L.
F. Gast, Green Bay, who read at the sermon at the laying of the cornerstone, the Rev. E. Koch, Oshkosh, who placed within the cornerstone 11 articles of religious significance; the Rev. F. C. Reuter, pastor of the local church; the Rev. L.

Wegner of West De Pere; who conducted the benediction and the Rev.
L. Oberleiter, Oshkosh, who read the opening scriptures at the former service. Each of these congregations will assist with the week of dedicatory services beginning next Sunday at First English Lutheran church.

Settled within the simple and plain cornerstone, which marked the actual beginning of the church building, are 11 various articles, among which is the first copy of the new Lutheran hymnal adopted by the congregation of the new American Lutheran church last year. Rev. Koch pointed out that he was present the first pastor in the country to place the hymnal in an Lutheran cornerstone.

After these were placed in the stone, sealed, the piece was laid by the Rev. Mr. Reuter, who blessed it, marking the first piece of the large structure which stands on the ground today.

Include a bible, a copy of the Augsburger confession, a picture of the first church of the congregation, a history of the congregation as written by the Rev. Mr. Reuter, a copy of the church bulletin, a copy of the program of the service at the cornerstone laying, a copy of the Lutheran Standard, a copy of the Appleton Post-Crescent and a copy of the Appleton Review.

Bond servants were the people who came into this country in colonial times and were sold into servitude upon reaching this country if they were not already bound to a definite master. They were free at the close of their term of service.

OLD PARSONAGE USED AS SCHOOL

Brotherhood Members Remodel Residence for Sunday School

What was once the old parsonage
of First English Lutheran church
occupied by the family of the Rev.
F. C. Reuter, has been transformed into a Sunday school building composed of 10 class rooms. Remodeled while the new First English Lutheran church and parsonage were under construction, the old parsonage is now a unit of the new building, being readily accessible by entrance from the church basement and main floor.

Members of the church brotherhood devoted considerable time and effort in remodeling the structure.
The basement was remodeled into a large auditorium for young people's meetings, and for meetings of intermediate Sunday school classes.

Five rooms on the next floor are used for the primary department.
They are equipped with toy chairs for the small children, and the walls are decorated with Biblical pictures.
Five rooms on the second floor are utilized by the junior department.

The old parsonage formerly stood where the new home of the Rev. Mr.
Reuter now stands as a unit of the church building. The old structure was moved, and the old foundation razed to make way for the new building. Eventually the old building will be entirely razed and will be replaced with a building to conform with the architecture of the new buildings.

plane into a dive and flamed over the blazing structure several times creating such an uproar that he aroused occupants of the house. After they rushed out, Thomas continued on his route. He later learned the house of a neighbor was on fire.

AUXILIARY SPONSORS BENEFIT CARD PARTY

Fund to Be Used Toward De-fraying Cost of Clearing Up "Pines"

(Special to Post-Crescent)
New London—With the view of raising funds for clearing the grounds in front of the fourth school, a benefit card party will be sponsored in the Pines by the Community Hospital auxiliary. A card party is being planned at Catholic parish hall Monday evening. The committee comprises Mrs. R. D. Deuteran and Mrs. Frank J. Murphy. Mrs. Leonard Cline is chair-man of the work which is being done in the pines.

The entire tract is undergoing a change which will gradually bring it out of the jungle of undergrowth into one of the most pleasant spots in the community. Rank masses of undergrowth which for years had obstructed a view into the wood has been removed. All brush and dead wood has been removed and a huge accumulation of rubbish has been collected in piles throughout the park which will be removed. The south end of the woods is being cleared and it is there that the picnic will be staged.

The hospital grounds are rapidly becoming planted. The front pre-sents an almost finished aspect since the transplanting of trees has been completed. An interesting plan of foundation planting relieves the severe line of the hospital front, while an occasional tree or group has broken up the huge expanse of lawn on the east. During the past year a new garage has been erected at the rear of the hospital and a large vegetable garden is now being planted by the sisters and their assistants.

CULBERTSON ON CONTRACT

by Ely Culbertson
World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

THE TACTICS OF CONTRACT

As bidding is the strategy of Con-tract—the part of the game which deals with selecting the battlefield—so the play of the hand deals with the question of tactics and thus the Declarer is in the position of a general making a plan in regard to the disposition and use of his troops where battle has already been joined. This is the reason, so fre-quently emphasized by writers on Bridge, that when the first lead is made and the Dummy goes down on the table, the Declarer should make an adequate plan. This plan of course, is subject to change, as the battle wages and tricks are won or lost, but even a bad plan is better than none at all.

The following hand illustrates vividly the value of a paying plan and the means whereby it was carried out:

North—Dealer. North and South vulnerable.

♠ Q 7 6
♥ Q 10
♦ A K 10 8 6
♣ K 9 3
♠ J 9 6 3 2	N	E	K 8 5 4
♥ J 4	W	S	A 8 5
♦ 10 8 7 6 4	S	Q J
♣ 10 3 2
♠ 7 2
♥ A 5 2

The Deal:

South	West	North	East
2NT	Pass	10	1♠
Pass	Pass	3NT	Pass

Against this game contract, West opened the Knave of spades. How should South plan the play? It is, of course, obvious that he must play for the diamond suit and it is prob-able that he will lose a trick in that suit. He is sure of 2 tricks in spades, probably four in diamonds and two in clubs. However, he faces the danger of East establishing tricks in spades to defeat the contract, if he holds three diamonds to the Queen. To cov-er the Knave of spades with the Queen would be to limit South to 2 tricks in the spade suit.

South, therefore, with this hold-ing, should not cover, but should play the six from the Dummy and win the first trick with the Ace. East's bid of spades, coupled with the holding in the North and South West can never lead spades again. North has three stoppers in that suit, provided East leads a spade.

Lindow finally won 5-6, 4-6, 14-12. Tommy had drawn one bye, and then defeated Ter Haar of Weyauvega 6-1, 6-0 to enter the finals.

Jim Walsh had little trouble win-ning the other singles match after Don Larkee of Weyauvega carried the Wolf side to defeat sets in the first round. The scores were 5-6, 7-5. Walsh then trimmed DeVaud of Iola in the finals 6-3, 6-1.

Harold Glocke and Leo Yohr de-feated LaBude and Shreve, Weyau-vega, 6-2, 6-0, and Kettleson and Loope, Iola, 6-3, 6-2, to win the doubles without much difficulty.

You Can't Marry
by Julia Cleft-Addams

SYNOPSIS: Jenny Revell is challenged by Gratton Matching, employer of her cousin, Georgie, when he asks her if she and Eddie Townsend are married. She must lie to save Georgie, recently married to Eddie, from losing his job. Also she must keep Matching away from Eddie, who is nerve-shot after an accident.

Chapter 19
DEFIANCE

GEORGIE, over the old gray shoulder, looked harder still at Jenny.

The message of Georgie's eyes was very clear. "Jenny, you must play up, you must!"

"Well? Eh?"

"Yes, I married Eddie Townsend."

"Is he here?"

Involuntarily Jenny glanced behind her at the closed kitchen door.

"I'll see him, then," announced the Old Man.

"Oh, no, you can't see him," said Jenny, surprising herself quite as much as her hearers.

Georgie gasped. It was a quite distinct gasp and it surprised Jenny profoundly: she had never before realized what a towering, colossal, "boss" the Old Man was to Georgie.

Whereas to Jenny he was just a cross old man with dyspepsia, not unlike her grandfather. She looked him firmly in the eye.

"I can't allow you to see Eddie today, I'm afraid. He is in a highly nervous state and he mustn't see anyone he doesn't want to see."

"Indeed! In-deed!" The gray, narrow face was twisted into a sneer. "That's very interesting, that he doesn't want to see me?"

"You find it so?" A lightning indignation had sprung up in Jenny and she did not care whether she showed it or not. Best stand up to him as she had so often had to stand up to grandfather. "You find it merely interesting when a first-class flier loses his chance of ever flying again—his whole future, his health and his strength, all gone? You should be ashamed to come here at all, if that is all you have to say!"

There was a most curious silence. Georgie, her rich color ebbing and flowing, stared from one to the other. Jenny furnished four-square in front of the kitchen door and to give point to her remarks, turned the key and dropped it into the pocket of her life silk coat.

And Gratton Matching—what in the world was this sound that was being wrung out of old Gratton Matching? It was very like the rasp of a door on rusty hinges but it was undoubtedly a laugh. Georgie's relieved smile showed it.

"You'll forgive my cousin, sir? She's not much more than a child."

"Shut up, Revell!" His slate-gray eyes bored into Jenny's. "You're not asking me to forgive you for anything you've said or done. are you?"

"Certainly not," Jenny assured him. "I think it is you who should apologize. And then you should go away, since Eddie can't see you, and let me tell him that no one will worry him until he is better."

"I've never apologized to anyone in my life," declared the Old Man, "and as for worrying your careless fool of a husband, what about the nuisance I've been put to? Here he goes hurtling through the windshield of a car when he ought to be dying me tonight. Here I've got to go on some fool train instead!" He took an unexpected step towards her but she did not retreat. "Like to come on the trip with us?"

"Oh, I should have adored it!" (Why, he wasn't a terrible old man at all when you got to know him! He was a lonely, eccentric, cross old hermit, that was all.) "But Eddie can't possibly be left."

"Like to come and have dinner with me at Rochester Gate some night? Wednesday night? Eh?"

"But won't you still be away?"

"Are you trying to teach me my business? Let me tell you, young woman—"

"Please," begged Jenny, as she had often begged her grandfather—"please don't shout so!"

"Are you coming to dinner on Wednesday next or not?" demand the Old Man, but he did not shout.

"I shall be delighted," said Jenny; and, obeying some memory half lost in childhood, she dropped him a demure little curtsy.

"Jenny!" breathed Georgie, utterly bewildered.

"Shut up, Revell! Why aren't you packing? Didn't you hear me say you had only ten minutes to pack? I'll wait in the car—no, thank you, I won't go in there." The Old Man grimaced violently at the door of the living room, which Georgie flung open. "I know when I'm not wanted." He turned back to Jenny and it became evident that the grimace was a smile. "You're very young. As your cousin says, not much more than a child."

"I don't agree. I was 24 two days ago."

"Ha! And do you know what I did the day after I was 24?" And as she shook her head—"I did just what you did yesterday."

"I don't remember," puzzled Jenny, completely off her guard, "doing anything special yesterday."

Gratton Matching's grimace widened. He made no answer but gestured Georgie imperiously to open the door of the apartment.

The sound of his footsteps had died away before Georgie shut the door. She did it so clumsily that it half slammed and Jenny exclaimed—"Oh, be careful. You're making such a clatter!"

"As you are going to hector me as you hectored the Old Man, Jenny? You put it across with him magnificently—or perhaps he always has a soft spot for a blonde. But you mustn't, you know, take that tone with me."

Jenny wondered if the skies had fallen. She stood stupidly staring while Georgie walked into her own room and closed the door behind her.

Jenny forced herself across the little hall to that closed door and every yard seemed a mile. She raised her hand to knock—and the door opened wide.

"Oh, Jenny pet, what under heaven got into me? It wasn't me speaking, nor the real me. Forget it, lambs—for any sake, promise me you'll forget!"

They were clinging together.

"I'll forget," promised Jenny, "if you'll forgive the times I've snapped at you for calling me a child, when I'm a full-grown woman—an old maid, as one might say of 24. You're tired, darling. Must you go with him?"

"Yes, I must. Can you pack for me? I don't believe I have ever felt really tired until now. I didn't sleep last night. You were splendid with the Old Man, Jen. You sounded absolutely as though it was you who married Ed yesterday. I—it was horrible of me, but you made me jealous. What's the matter?"

Jennie and Georgie meet in open disagreement, tomorrow, and Jenny blocks Georgie's way when she tries to leave the apartment.

London, Eng.—Once each year, on the edge of the moors in Calder valley, the oldest club in the world meets. It is of necessity a secret society, attendance requiring all of its members to tip-toe out of their homes, and scuttle fearfully through side alleys until they reach the moorland hamlet. The name of this queer organization is the Henpeck club, and its members claim Adam, the first henpecked husband, as the founder.

Southpaws Clash When Appleton Invades Green Bay Sunday

ART BEHR AND JOE PETCKA IN FIRST BATTLE

Green Sox Have Won from Kimberly, Wisconsin Rapids This Season

VALLEY LEAGUE

Green Bay	2	0	1,000

Wis. Rapids	1	1	500
Kimberly	1	1	500
Shawano	0	1	500

SUNDAY'S GAMES

Appleton at Green Bay, Shawano at Kimberly, Kaukauna at Wisconsin Rapids.

BY GORDON MCINTIRE

WITH one win and one defeat to their credit in the Fox River Valley Baseball League, Appleton's Collegians will invade Green Bay tomorrow afternoon to see what is making the Green Sox run and score wins over Kimberly and Wisconsin Rapids.

The feature of the afternoon should be a southpaw duel between Art "Lefty" Behr for Appleton and Joe Petcka, formerly of Clintonville, who also serves "em up from the wrong side." Petcka will be making his first appearance against the Collegians whom he has defeated several times in past years as a member of the P. W. D. team.

If memory is correct the Clintonville ace once turned in a win over the Appleton team when there still were icicles in the air and snow in the hollows around the ball park. The Collegians feel that if he could throw his curve ball so well at that time they may be in for a bad afternoon if the temperatures are warm, conditions which usually make for excellent hurling.

Glenn Receiving

However, all of Green Bay's strength does not lie in the hurling staff. The Bays have been looking for a good ball club for several seasons and figure they've got one now. Only the best of last year's team was retained and the additions have shown themselves excellent performers. "None but the best" is the claim of the Bays this year and they aim to have a ball team that will almost rival the Packers on the grid.

Eddie Gluck has returned to the Sox as catcher and is tanning the leather of a new pair of mittens in second place with a batting mark of .429 and is followed by Zuluindul with .375, the same average compiled by Norm Cushman. The other of the Bay performers are below the .300 mark but they are potential clubbers and may break loose any afternoon.

Verstegen At Second

Appleton broke into the win column last Sunday at the expense of Shawano but the club did not impress with its hitting. Bobby Verstegen will get a chance to perform at second base again Sunday and should get one or two more bingles than his predecessor.

Just what kind of a shake up will be made in the outfield is a question. Sonny Tornow has looked miserable at the bat in the first two games but whether that's because of the earliness of the season or the cunning of opposition hurlers is a question. At any rate the fans are hoping Tornow comes through Sunday along with Len Smith whose efforts last week were anything except those of the league's ranking batters in 1933.

A large crowd is planning to follow the Collegians to the Bay for baseball is about as cheap an entertainment as one can get this summer. The Bays will entertain the folks royally furnishing music before the game and presenting a few extra inducements during the contest.

Kaukauna is billed for Wisconsin Rapids and this should be a battle royal for the Electric City aggregation all play heads up when performing on the Reed-men's home lot. It will be Gockel and McLain for the Rapids while Fortin and Shorcy Venzel are to work for the Kaws. Les Smith, Kaukauna star outfielder, who has been on the hospital list with an injured hand, will probably see some service against the Rapids even if only in the role of a pinch hitter.

Jerry Kral and his Shawano Indians will appear in Kimberly with a much improved battle front and it is quite likely that the Papermakers will have a much tougher battle than they are expecting. In Bouche and Handy, Shawano has a first class battery while the return of the Reed brothers have greatly improved the infield. It will be Poca and Ashman for Kimberly and when Muench, recently appointed manager, intends to stand pat on the rest of his lineup.

Umpires in the Valley loop have been instructed by President C. A. Beetz, Appleton, to speed up the games. The league executive, checking over the official reports, has discovered several hours plus contests and the arbiters handing these drawn out affairs have been called on the carpet. Each of the managers have also been ordered to speed it up and explanations will be required if the frays continue to drag out near the two-hour limit.

MT. OLIVE SOFTBALL TEAM MEETS KAUKAUNA

Mt. Olive Lutheran church softball team will clash with the strong Kaukauna entry in the Fox River Valley Lutheran league at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon on Roosevelt diamond. Kaukauna has won two games in league play while Appleton has been idle. Len Krieger and Harry Schinke are expected to do the tolling for Appleton while the Kaukauna hurling choice is unknown.

BUTTE DES MORTS GOLFERS COMPETE FOR PERCH DINNER

The first team match for Butte des Morts golfers will be staged Wednesday afternoon. It has been announced by club officers in charge of the event. Tom Hill and Ben Eide have been named captains of two teams still to be picked and the prize will be a boneless perch dinner.

Play will be permitted any time Wednesday afternoon. Contestants will sign up for the meet over the weekend and up to Wednesday at which time the players will be assigned to the respective teams. The losers will pay for the feed.

KIMBERLY OUT FOR SECOND WIN IN VALLEY LOOP

Villagers Feel Good About Beating Kaukauna's Champs Last Week

KIMBERLY — When Shawano Indians come down to Kimberly for a Fox River Valley league game Sunday they will be prepared to put up a stiff fight for a win and Manager Muench and his Papermakers will be out to show the local fans they mean business this year and are a club with plenty of fight.

The Shawano aggregation last Sunday at Appleton was guilty of six errors which made things look bad and lost the nod. Things have happened over the past week and the Indians may surprise the Papermakers. The two Reed brothers will show their wares in the Shawano infield and are a nice combination on any ball club. Bouche, a right hand curve artist, will draw the hurling assignment with Handy catching.

Clarence Poca will throw the leather for the Papermakers with Ashman using the big glove. Poca showed rare form last Sunday when he set down the heavy hitting Kaukauna aggregation with seven scattered hits. Manager Muench believes that Gossens will prove a better man with the bat if relieved of the pressure of infield work and like last Sunday he will crouch in right field in company with Novack and Butch Henline.

Jerry Powell will hold down the hot corner with the Babe Ruth of the league, Freddy Hackbarr, at second. Shell or Du Pont at first and Muench at short. In an effort to improve the batting eye of the team in general Manager Muench had the boys out on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday evenings doing nothing but hitting the horsehide all over the ball park.

5 TEAMS GROUPED IN ASSOCIATION PENNANT SCRAMBLE

Milwaukee Loses Third Game of Series to Minneapolis, 19-2

CHICAGO (P) — Five weeks of the American association season have passed, and the race is still so close that five teams are well up in the running.

Indianapolis today and a lead of less than a game over Minneapolis and Columbus, Kansas City and Milwaukee were close behind. Toledo was showing signs of improvement.

The Mud Hens yesterday tripped Indianapolis, 12 to 4, aided by a good pitching job by Jim Moore, late of the Cleveland Indians. Moore gave only eight hits and his mates did so much hitting that he never was in danger. The home run got 16 hits, including a homer by Manager Bilo Falk, with one on a triple by West and a double by Butch Henline.

Swanson Ties Record

Columbus evaded up the series with Louisville, winning by 9 to 4. Evar Swanson, Columbus outfielder, tied an association record in hitting, four doubles, the rest of the Red Birds hit hard enough to total 17 safeties, while Ken Ash gave the Colonels eight hits. Mel Simon got a homer for Louisville, but it failed to help much.

Art Rubele led Minneapolis to a 12 to 2 victory over Milwaukee, with a pair of home runs and a single, to give the Millers three out of four in the series. The victory went to Jess Petty, who gave the Brewers seven well separated hits, while Minneapolis was being Caldwell, Kesselheim and Nelson for 15.

Kansas City finally managed to do some hitting against St. Paul hurler, Nicky Hahn and Muna for 12. Bob Osborne had one of his good days, holding the Saints to four hits and hitting out a double to help his team's victorious attack.

HIGH'S TRIPLE GIVES REDS WIN OVER CHICAGO

Boston Braves Wallop Phils 10-0; Yanks Beat Washington 6-3

BY GAYLE TALBOT (Associated Press Sports Writer)

THE Cincinnati Reds, fighting to maintain a foothold in the National League's first division, are giving the pace setting Chicago Cubs one of the grandest battles of the young season in their series at Redland field.

For two days the students of Howley and Hornsby have gone into extra innings to settle their bitter dispute, and neither side could claim an advantage today. The Reds pulled a 3 to 2 decision out of the fire in eleven rounds yesterday after losing in twelve the previous afternoon.

Andy High was the hero of the latest thriller. Two were out, two on base and Chicago one run ahead when High was inserted as a pinch-hitter in the eleventh. Lonnie Wacker, Cubs' sensational young pitcher, breezed two strikes past Andy, and then the explosion. Two runs and victory rode in on High's smashing triple.

Lead By 2 Games

The loss cut Chicago's advantage to two games over the Boston Braves, who were achieving a 10 to 0 triumph over the Phils. "Huck" Betts, 33-year-old "Rookie," yielded five hits in winning his fifth straight. Wes Schulmerich hammered two home runs.

Larry French of the Pittsburgh Pirates blanked the Cardinals, 5 to 0, on two hits. Paul Waner blasted four routing doubles at the expense of Derringer and Carleton. The New York Giants climbed into fifth place as they lured Vance from the box in the eighth and defeated Brooklyn, 9 to 4.

Lefty Gomez pitched deadly ball in the pinches to beat Washington, 6 to 3, and keep the Yankees on top in the hot American league race. The Yanks sewed it up in the third round when they tagged young Monte Weaver for four hits and as many runs.

The Athletics ran up their fourth straight victory and Ruben Walberg's first of the season at Boston's expense, 6 to 1.

Wesley Ferrell shook off the hoodoo that trailed him through the east as the Cleveland Indians out-slugged St. Louis, 11 to 7. He had to have relief but was credited with the victory.

Detroit got to Vic Frasier for two singles and Jonathan Stone's home-run in the ninth to score three runs and beat the White Sox, 8 to 5.

ST. MARY TAKES 8TH LEAGUE GAME

Wallops St. Joseph Club Friday Afternoon; Score Is 21 and 9

St. Mary softball team, in the Parochial league, brought its winning streak to eight games Friday afternoon. The latest victory was at the expense of the St. Joseph team. The game which turned out to be a free-hitting contest was well attended. Although the St. Joseph boys ended up at the short end of a 21 to 9 score, they played hard every minute of the game. Their spirit of "never die" together with their wonderful display of good sportsmanship is deserving of mention.

The game started with a bang and his began to click from the bats of both teams so that from the first it looked as if the game would be closely contested. With the finish of the initial inning Harker and Quinn, battery for St. Mary, knuckled down to some real work that kept the hits and runs scattered.

In the meantime their teammates piled up enough runs and hits to permit the substitution of an almost new team. Quinn, with a triple and two singles in three trips to the plate and Fountain with a home run late chased two others across the plate ahead of him proved to be the heavy clouters for St. Mary. Forster likewise connected for a three base hit. For St. Joseph Bartman, Kees and Toonen looked impressive with the stick.

About 20 players were used in this battle. The following represented St. Joseph: Toonen, Kettenheim, G. Bauer.

Carideo Goes to Missouri

University of Missouri, in the Show Me state, has asked Frank Carideo to become head football coach and put on display some of the talent he exhibited in winning All-America honors as Notre Dame's quarterback in 1929 and 1930. The announcement of his signing was made today by Chester L. Brewer, left, Missouri's director of athletics. The former Notre Dame star takes over the job left by Gwyn Henry, recently ousted. Carideo acted as assistant grid coach to Noble Klier at Purdue in 1931.

Big Ten Schools Plan 1933 Football Schedules

EVANSTON (P) — Football schedules for Western conference teams during 1933-34 were virtually completed today by directors of athletics and grid coaches meeting here.

Wisconsin and Ohio State have four games each, but it is considered probable that the two universities will contract for a game on Nov. 4. This is an open date for each but Sam Williamson, Ohio State coach, was opposed to meeting the Badgers then since Northwestern and Michigan are met on successive Saturdays prior to the date and Pennsylvania follows a week later.

The schedule also was drawn up for 1934 but dates were not specified. From a financial viewpoint the Purdue and Wisconsin schedules are particularly weak.

The 1933 schedules:

Oct. 7—Indiana at Minnesota;

Oct. 14—Notre Dame at Indiana; Wisconsin at Illinois; Stanford at Northwestern; Vanderbilt at Ohio State; Purdue at Minnesota.

Oct. 21—Purdue at Chicago; Wisconsin at Iowa; Illinois and Army at New York; Ohio State at Michigan; Pittsburgh at Minnesota; Indiana at Northwestern.

Oct. 28—Michigan at Chicago; Iowa at Minnesota; Northwestern at Ohio State; Purdue at Wisconsin.

Nov. 4—Michigan at Illinois; Indiana at Ohio State; Minnesota at Northwestern; Carnegie Tech at Purdue.

Nov. 11—Indiana at Chicago; Iowa at Michigan; Illinois at Northwestern; Pennsylvania at Ohio State; Purdue at Notre Dame.

Nov. 18—Chicago at Illinois; Wisconsin at Ohio State; Iowa at Purdue; Minnesota at Michigan; Notre Dame at Northwestern.

Nov. 25—Purdue at Indiana; Nebraska at Iowa, (tentative); Illinois at Ohio State; Michigan at Northwestern; Wisconsin at Minnesota.

The 1934 schedule in part:

Michigan—Chicago, Illinois, Minnesota, Northwestern, Ohio State, Michigan State college.

Wisconsin—Illinois, Minnesota, Iowa, Purdue.

PETROLLE FLOORED BUT COMES BACK TO DEFEAT BATTALINO

Fargo Express Had Edge in All Rounds Except First, Tenth

CHICAGO (P) — Bat Battalino was to be about ready to admit that Billy Petrolle can lick him.

The former world featherweight champion, fortified with rare courage, stood in there in the Chicago Stadium ring last night and traded slugs with the old Fargo Express, and even knocked him down for a count of nine in the first round.

But after it was all over, Petrolle had gained a ten round decision. And except for the first and the tenth rounds, Battalino took a decisive beating.

In the middle of the first round a whistling left hook landed squarely on Petrolle's chin and he went down to remain as long as he dared. But at the end of the round, he was popping the Hartford youth with vicious lefts to the body and rights to the head, and he kept right on doing it until Battalino made a last, gallant effort to turn the tide and victory. They were about even up to the sixth, but after that session, Petrolle clearly was master.

Bat Starts Fast

Seeking to wipe out a 12-round knockout verdict scored against him two months ago in New York by Petrolle, Battalino piled into a withering two-handed fire that drew blood from his tender nose, puffed out his lips and ripped open a cut over one eye. He never scored a knockdown, but for every punch he landed, the old clothes man of the ring squared the account and more two, to win the unanimous decision of judges and referee.

The battle was not one-sided, however, and the disappointingly small crowd of about 10,000 got everything it paid for. It sensed a knockout victory for Battalino in the first round, and in the eighth called for a handsome margin.

Petrolle fought a careful, methodical fight after the first round, held Battalino even in the second, moved ahead slightly in the third, and increased his margin until there was no doubt of his superiority. He clearly earned a shot at Tony Canzoneri's lightweight title, if the stadium is able to arrange the championship match.

Klons, Bartman, Ranner, Rossmore, Ves, Eckes, Spore, E. Kloss and V. Kloss. Eighteen saw action for St. Mary: Dempsey Vandenberg, Quinn, Mortell, Hecker, O'Brien, Campbell, Crabbe, Forster, Fountain, Flanagan, Lally, Garry, Jones, Sheehy, Frieders, Vanderhey and Bauer.

KIMBERLY HIGH COPS LITTLE 9 TRACK HONORS

Wrightstown Second, Seymour Third; Two New Records Made

KIMBERLY high school's well balanced track and field team won the 1932 championship of the Little Nine conference here Saturday afternoon. The meet was held at George A. Whiting athletic field of Lawrence college and under auspices of the college.

Scoring five firsts and picking up two second and two thirds, Kimberly was not even pressed by the other schools. Wrightstown took second place with 134 points, Seymour was third with 22; Denmark fourth with 11. Hortonville and Brillion tied for fifth with 9 each, and Freedom failed to get a point.

Papermakers First in Century

The Papermakers finished in front in the 100 yard dash, the 440, pole vault, broad jump and the shot put. Denmark was first in the discus, Seymour in the 220, the half and mile, Brillion in the high jump and Wrightstown won in the two hurdle races.

Van Susteren tallied a first place in the pole vault and shot put to give Kimberly its greatest number of points. However, G. Feurig of Seymour was high point man for the meet annexing first place in the half mile, 220 yard dash and a second place in the broad jump for a total of 13 points.

Two records were broken during the afternoon. Baumgart, Denmark, added almost four feet to the discus record when he heaved the plate 107 feet 10 inches. The old record was 104 feet.

The other new record was turned in by Halloway, Brillion youth, who far outdistanced the high jump field and set a record of 5 feet 7 1/2 inches as compared to the old mark of 5 feet 4 inches. The youngsters showed great form and had not jumped so fast when trying to set a record he might have gone even higher.

The relay race also went to Kimberly, the Vikings' quartet of Albers, Koehn, Gossens, and Grisee turning in the half mile run in 1 minute 42.2 second.

The results:

100 yard dash—First, Grisee, Kimberly; second, Meredith, Hortonville; third, Koehn, Kimberly. Time 16.5 seconds.

120 yard hurdles—First, Vanderhelden, Wrightstown; second, Zirlbel, Wrightstown; third, Talbot, Seymour. Time 19.2.

220 yard low hurdles—First, Vanderhelden, Wrightstown; second, Zirlbel, Wrightstown; third, Kiebler, Brillion. Time 30.7.

Pole vault—First, Van Susteren, Kimberly; second, Shepard, Seymour; third, Christensen, Denmark, 9 feet 10 inches.

Shot put—First Van Susteren, Kimberly; second, Krautkramer, Wrightstown; third, Servis, Hortonville. Distance 40 feet 7 inches.

Relay race won by Kimberly team of Albers, Koehn, Gossens, and Grisee. Time 14:22.

Today's meet the Juniors will clash with Kimberly Juniors in a practice game at Interlake park. Frederick and Krause, who worked for the Appleton team against the college here will not against Kimberly.

Merchants at Oshkosh

Appleton's other Little Fox team, the Merchants, also enters in their first game last week will journey down to Oshkosh to see how the Cardinals ram up 49 runs against De Pere last week. It will be the first meeting of the two clubs and the Merchants are rather worried.

The Merchant lineup will be the same one that whitewashed Little Chute 3 and 0, and Harvey Buss will try his best slant on the sawdust.

First base last week will journey Little Chute one hit and his mates figure that is good enough for any Little Fox pitcher. A number of fans are expected to follow the Merchants.

In other games Sunday Darboy will invade Little Chute in a more or less local feud. The Darboy team was defeated last week by Neenan who a night awakened in the late stages of the game.

Menasha invades Green Bay and Wrightstown comes to Neenah.

The two Appleton teams, Oshkosh, Neenan and Wrightstown were winners in last week's games.

WHEAT MAY HOLD KEY TO COMING U. S. ELECTION

Crop Apt to Elect Next President, Roger Babson Points Out

BY ROGER W. BABSON
Babson Park, Mass. — Keep an eye on the wheat situation. It may hold the key to our coming national elections and may have a decided influence upon business. While it is too early to gauge accurately the outcome of this year's total crop, recent reports do show probabilities of outstanding shortage in winter wheat. Assuming normal growing conditions over the remainder of the season, winter wheat output will be only 440 million bushels, or 44 per cent lower than last year, and 29 per cent below the five year average. The spring wheat crop may be somewhat larger than last year if the weather is favorable, but the United States' total wheat crop for 1932 is likely to be short. Although there is now a large visible over-supply on hand in the world, Russia is likely this year to be a buyer rather than a seller. The Soviet agricultural program is in dire distress and food shortages will necessitate buying foreign wheat.

A striking parallel exists between the present situation and that in the great depression of 1932-1933. The farmers were then making the same demands as today for flat currency, silver monetization, and other direct inflation measures. Wheat is now selling at 50 cents a bushel. In August, 1930, it was selling at 53 cents. Then came news of a big crop failure in India, which, coupled with lower crop reports here, caused prices soaring. The price rose to 70 cents by September, 1930, and to 94 cents by election time. McKinley and the Republicans rode to victory on the wave of improved farm sentiment. Incidentally, the improvement in wheat dragged with it the price of other farm products, greatly helping to end the depression. Will history repeat itself in 1932? No one can tell, but the situation is well worth watching.

Factors To Watch
Sensational damage has undoubtedly been done to the new domestic winter wheat crop. Although the spring wheat plantings will probably be larger than the acreage harvested last year, even a good crop of spring wheat would not compensate for the loss in the winter yield. Leaders in both politics and business will watch growing conditions with keenest interest this season. A drought or excessive rainfall could easily mean that we would produce no more than we need and perhaps be forced to draw on our reserve supplies. Also watch carefully growing hostility between Russia and Japan. Should actual fighting begin, Russia would not only be unable to export wheat but would be forced to import it in large quantities. Russia is already making purchases in Australia, Canada, and the Argentine. Remember that it was Russia two years ago that completely upset the Farm Board's plans by dumping wheat in the United States.

Now, with Russia a buyer instead of a seller and with lower American crop prospects, the United States should be able to work off considerable of our wheat surplus. The European wheat is quite late this year. While crops in the Argentine and Australia are fairly good, these countries are not now pressing sales. Although world finances are still very discouraging, Europeans must eat, and unless there occurs a sudden change in foreign crop prospects, Europe must turn to North America for increasing supplies. Another factor to watch is the Farm Board marketing. Chairman Stone recently said that if effective financing were arranged he could sell 15 to 25 million bushels of wheat and from 500 thousand to a million bales of cotton before the end of the present year. It is possible that Congress may pass some export financing measure for farm products that would help. Also note that France, Italy, and Germany have recently relaxed their embargoes on imported wheat. France is now allowing 40 per cent of her annual consumption to come in as against 3 per cent before.

Effects on Politics
Farmers have come to the conclusion that no amount of credit relief will do them any good. Many feel they have already had too much credit. What is desperately needed is a rise in farm prices. All the bills now in Congress in behalf of the farmers are directly aimed at raising prices. Even though the farm bloc holds the balance of power, the farmers themselves are unable to agree on any single plan of legislation. One organized group favors the equalization fee; another, just as powerful, is firmly set on the debenture plan; and a third group wants stabilization of the dollar through the Goldborough bill. Still another group wants direct inflation of the currency through greenbacks. This division of opinion may easily prevent any of these farm bills from becoming law. In the meantime, other forces, entirely outside of Congress, may accomplish a rise in farm prices irrespective of legislation. Just as it was the rise in wheat that saved McKinley in 1896 after four years of terrible depression, and as it was drought and a rise in wheat that assisted Coolidge in 1924, so it may be a Russian shortage, possibly Russo-Japanese warfare, and a short wheat crop in the United States that may raise prices and elect Hoover in 1932. I am merely pointing out possibilities based on study of the facts. I am not forecasting that wheat will go skyrocketing this year. One depressing factor will be the tendency of farmers to market the new crop all at the same time, because they badly need cash. Another is the hundred million bushels or more of Farm Board wheat being dumped on the market. Should, however, events transpire which I have previously indicated, both the purchasing power of the West, and the political chances of the Republicans would be greatly improved.

General business as measured by the Babsonchart is now 37 per cent below the normal N.Y. Line, compared with 85 per cent a month ago, even with adjustments for usual seasonal movements. (Copyright, 1932, Publishers Financial Bureau.)

Cost Of Living Drops More Than Wages In Price Shift

BY ALLARD SMITH
Executive Vice President, The Union Trust Co., Cleveland, Ohio

Decreases in the cost of living have so far more than kept pace with reductions in wage rates, so that those of the country's wage earners who have had full time employment have enjoyed larger real wages, while those who have had part time employment have suffered less decrease in purchasing power than would otherwise have been the case.

A survey by the National Industrial Conference Board shows that from October, 1929, to February, 1932, living costs have declined 20.7 per cent. In the same period wage rates have been decreased 13 per cent and the salaries of executives and other general workers approximately 20 per cent.

The survey covered some 1500 companies representing a broad cross section of business, as it included transportation, public utilities, the retail trade and financial institutions as well as manufacturing and extractive industries.

Returns in the survey indicate that business generally curtailed operations as the first step in meeting business depression, following this, as the depression continued, with reduction in executive and other general salaries and as a last resort cut wage rates in an endeavor to reduce costs and recover economic balance with lower sales prices.

While falling commodity prices have done their full share in continuing the business uncertainty they have mitigated to a certain extent the severity of reduced earning power and offer unexcelled purchasing opportunity to those with savings which have not been impaired.

OLD FASHIONED SINK IN DISCARD TODAY

Rustless White Metal Used in New Type of Standard Unit

Even the kitchen has succumbed to the modern influence and the old fashioned sink joins the tin bath tub in the discard.

A new type of kitchen sink made of solid Monel Metal, a nickel copper alloy, that has been used for twenty five years in various industries because of its strength, resistance to corrosion, appearance, and durability, has been placed on the market in a series of standardized models. It is now on display in the show rooms of Ryan & Long, 309 W. College Ave.

One piece construction. A distinctive feature of the sink is its one piece construction, achieved by stamping from sheet metal on huge presses used in the manufacture of automobile bodies. It has flowing curves at all corners that eliminate cracks and crevices in which dirt could accumulate. It is made of 18 U. S. Standard gauge metal, reinforced with metal braces and sound deadening feature of the Monel Metal sink is its saving of space over those of the older type. In sinks of coated ware or of ceramic materials there is a roll around the apron usually up to 2 1/2 inches. A curved edge is used between the drainboards and the sink bowl. In the metal sink the diameter of these rolls is reduced to half an inch and results in 81 per cent increased working surface.

The new sink has a silvery satin finish that harmonizes with any of the brighter color schemes so popular in the modern home. Monel Metal is proof against rust and resistant to all ordinary forms of corrosion, including the action of fruit juices and other food acids. It is solid with no coating to chip off and is unaffected by heat or cold. It has a hard, close grained surface which cannot be dented easily and on which household abrasive cleaners can be used without harm. It has a high degree of cleanliness which facilitates the maintenance of its original appearance indefinitely.

5 Generations of Sinks
Mr. Long pointed out that the Monel Metal type represented only the fifth generation in the evolution of the sink. "It traces a direct descent from the old rain barrel and wooden trough which served our ancestors for more than a century," he said. "About the time of the Gold Rush to California luxury came to the housewife in the form of a wooden bowl lined with metal; and a short while in the finest homes even had a faucet. Soon after the Civil War the sink was made of cast iron set in a wooden box, and it was given a permanent place in the home kitchen. In the late 'Seventies,' just side of Congress, may accomplish a rise in farm prices irrespective of legislation. Just as it was the rise in wheat that saved McKinley in 1896 after four years of terrible depression, and as it was drought and a rise in wheat that assisted Coolidge in 1924, so it may be a Russian shortage, possibly Russo-Japanese warfare, and a short wheat crop in the United States that may raise prices and elect Hoover in 1932. ## ADVISE INVESTORS TO READ "DOPE" ON SECURITY MARKETS

Analyze Regular Corporate Statements, Expert Says

BY GEORGE T. HUGHES
(Copyright, 1932, by Cons. Press)

New York — As a part of the program for adequate publicity with regard to the affairs of corporations the securities of which are offered for general distribution insistence on quarterly or at least semi-annual reports is not the least important. The New York Stock Exchange has made commendable efforts to encourage such regular statements but there is room for further improvement.

The excuse commonly offered by those corporate organizations who report to shareholders once a year is that their operations are on a seasonal basis and that a quarterly statement would be misleading. The defense is not valid. Anyone intelligent enough to interpret a financial statement can make allowance for seasonal factors. It is done in the case of the railways. No one at all informed on the movement of traffic expects that each month will furnish exactly one twelfth a year's tonnage or one twelfth a year's gross or net income. No one expects that the retail stores will do as much business in the dull summer months as they do at the Christmas holidays.

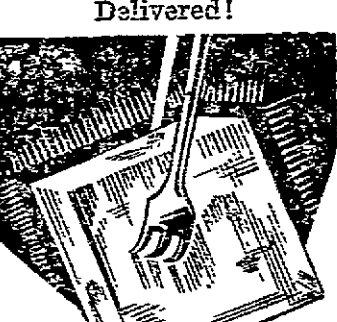

In any event the stockholders will be better off by knowing the facts as they develop. There are corporations the practice of which along these lines is above criticism. One of these is the United States Steel Corporation and another is General Motors. Neither has suffered in the estimation of the public or in competition with other units in their respective lines from its policy of publicity.

It remains to consider the corporations who put up the excuse that their operations are on a world wide basis and that it is impossible for them to assemble the data on which quarterly reports could be made. Sometimes they assert that it is necessary to delay even an annual statement until the period covered is so far past that it is of no practical use. To an outsider it would seem that estimates of reasonable accuracy could be arrived at.

A group of Mexicans plan to establish a colony on the Revilla Gigedo islands, scattered in the Pacific ocean about 250 miles south of the tip of Lower California.
